U. S. NATIONAL DEBT REDUCED TO 19 BILLION

GOVERNMENT CLEAR OF MUCH DEBT BY 1944

IF ADMINISTRATION POLICY OF DEBT REDUCTION IS ADHERED TO

MONEY FROM FOREIGN NATIONS
FOR WAR DEBTS ALSO USED IN LIQUIDATION

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Few tax reductions possibly before the presidential election of 1928 and at the latest by 1930 were forecast today by treasury experts as statistics were made public showing the national debt has been reduced to $19,612,627,572.28.

The government will be financially clear of all obligations to its citizens by 1944 if the administration policy of reducing the public debt as rapidly as possible and applying money received from foreign nations for war debts to the fund is continued.

The public debt is being reduced at the rate of $650,000,000 annually. European nations owe the United States $11,000,000,000 for war obligations and this huge sum will be funded over a period of 62 years at varying rates of interest that will bring into Uncle Sam's treasury a total of more than $21,000,000,000.

A move is to be started in congress this fall to urge the government to extend the United States reduction period over 62 years instead of putting the entire burden on the present generation and retiring the obligations in 18 years. The administration, however, expects to oppose this suggestion.

Tax reductions, officials hold, are possible even with large debt reductions, because of the prosperity of the country. Now that America is exceedingly prosperous, the time is ripe to liquidate debts so the nation can be ready for the next emergency, administration leaders said.

It was pointed out that the government so far this fiscal year has a surplus of $13,904,000 in the treasury, whereas last year at the same time the nation faced a deficit of $50,647,000.

Meantime the treasury is preparing to carry on the nation's business between the tax periods of September and December. There is about $415,000,000 maturing on Sept. 15 and tax collections are expected to fall below this amount. A gold bond issue of between $350,000,000 and $400,000,000 will be floated to make up the temporary deficit.

Officials said the new bonds would bear interest at about 3 3/4 per cent.

22 Persons Drowned as Rubber Laden Ship Sinks in Amazon

Rio De Janeiro, Aug. 4.—(UP)—A dispatch from Para reported today that 22 persons had been drowned and a cargo of 140,000 pounds of rubber had been lost when the river steamer Bitar struck a rock yesterday and sank in the Amazon river near Breyes, 126 miles west of Para. There are supposed to be man-eating fish in the Amazon, and dispatches from Breyes advanced the probability that some of the passengers were destroyed by them.

SEEK TO MAKE A GREATER MILL CITY

INVITATIONS EXTENDED 5 COM-MUNITIES TO CONSOLIDATE
WITH MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Alderman J. Turner, president of the Minneapolis city council and chairman of the civic committee, announced today that within two weeks an invitation will be extended to officials of five neighboring communities to attend a meeting to discuss plans for consolidation with the city of Minneapolis.

The cities and towns which are to be asked to become part of Minneapolis are Columbia Heights, Brookside, Edina, St. Louis Park, Richfield and Robbinsdale.

If the project, designed to inaugurate a "greater Minneapolis" movement, succeeds, thousands of acres and approximately 30,000 persons would be added to the flour city.

Mexico's Religious War Has an Economic Phase

DRUNKEN DRIVER OF AUTOMOBILE TO LOSE LICENSE

Minneapolis, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Judge Manley L. Fosseen today announced that commencing today he will recommend revocation of automobile licenses for all cars in which drunken drivers are arrested, whether the machines are owned by relatives, employers, friends or the drunken drivers themselves.

To emphasize his threat the judge recommended the revocation of the license of a car owned by Mrs. C. Fox, which she had loaned to Carl Larson, a boarder at her home.

Larson was in police court and pleaded guilty to drunken driving. He was sentenced to 90 days in the workhouse. License of one other drunken driver also was revoked and he was given a 90-day workhouse sentence.

SEN. WILLIAMS, ST. LOUIS, LEADS IN MISSOURI PRIMARY

HAS LEAD OF MORE THAN 50,000
OVER OPPONENT, DAVID M.
PROCTOR

REPUBLICAN SENATORIAL CON-TEST BROUGHT OUT A WET
AND DRY ISSUE

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Unofficial returns from 2,043 of Missouri's 4,095 precincts early today gave Senator George H. Williams of St. Louis a lead of more than 50,000 over David M. Proctor in the republican senatorial contest in yesterday's primary.

Williams' vote for the long term was 102,834 and Proctor's 47,956. Blodgett Priest, wet candidate, polled 27,003 votes.

In the short term race Williams' vote was 105,194 and Priest's 30,381. Representative Harry B. Hawes was leading Ewing Cockrell 96,889 to 58,054 in the democratic senatorial contest.

Hawes had taken his stand for modification of the 18th amendment as opposed to Cockrell's bone dry attitude.

Returns from the Kansas primary indicates Governor Ben S. Paulen and United States Senator Charles Curtis had been nominated by large majorities in the republican contest. In 204 precincts of the 2,641 precincts in Kansas, Curtis has polled 12,840 votes to 1,905 for his negro opponent, Nick Chiles. Paulen, in the gubernatorial race, led Golden B. Davis 9,094 to 1,711 in 256 precincts.

On the democratic side former Governor Jonathan M. Davis was leading Donald Muir 2,028 to 1,946 in 204 precincts in the contest for governor. Davis is attempting a political comeback following his acquittal on charges of selling pardons while in office.

MODIFIED WETS WIN IN MISSOURI

Incomplete returns from primary elections in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma today pointed to at least a "modified wet" victory in the Missouri senatorial contest, defeat of what Little Ku Klux Klan influence there was in the Kansas primary and victory for Klan candidates in Oklahoma.

Nomination of Senator George H. Williams, republican, and Representative Harry B. Hawes, democrat, in the Missouri senatorial race over their dry opponents, was apparent in view of their leads of approximately 50,000. Williams, incumbent, has stated he was personally opposed to the 18th amendment, but favors its enforcement as long as it was a law.

Hawes has taken his stand for modification of the 18th amendment. Senator Charles Curtis, republican, has been renominated in Kansas, returns indicate and in the state contests those candidates opposed by Klan elements were leading.

Partial returns in Oklahoma showed Senator J. C. Harrell, republican incumbent, safely renominated while in the democratic contest, J. C. Walton, deposed governor and Klan foe, was trailing 8,000 votes behind Elmer Thomas. In the democratic gubernatorial race, Henry S. Johnston, reputed Klan candidate, was leading the field by nearly 10,000 votes.

Violence Flares Anew Throughout Chicago Underworld--3 Are Killed

HIS HANDS

MOTOR CAR VISITS SALOON AND
POURS OUT FUSILLADE, KILLS
SALOONKEEPER

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Violence has flared anew through Chicago's underworld and today labor wars, vendetta and beer wars had resulted in three new murders.

Morris Markowitz, teaming contractor, was shot by an unknown slayer, who after the shooting, brushed his hands and calmly walked to a waiting automobile. Markowitz had used non-union employees and had been behind several union disagreements. Police seek a union official.

Joseph Salvo, saloonkeeper, became a victim of the vendetta, which has been raging in Chicago Heights for the past three months. A motor car whirled by his saloon, several guns were pushed from the side and Salvo was struck by several bullets.

An unidentified man was found dead, his hands and feet tied—in the bottom of a cistern. Police say he was a victim of the beer war and had been "taken for a ride," which in the parlance of the underworld means death.

HALL-MILLS CASE REOPENED

INTENSE INTEREST SHOWN BY
GOV. MOORE OF NEW JERSEY

New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Intense interest displayed by Governor Moore in the reopened Hall-Mills investigation was exemplified today when the governor made public a note he had written to Senator Alexander Simpson, who received his formal commission as special prosecutor this afternoon.

"Do not persecute anybody, do not prejudice anybody, do not be unfair to anybody, do not favor anybody," Moore advised Simpson. "Do your best to drag all facts to light in this foul tragedy and all circumstances following it. If murder is a fine art in the state of New Jersey it will be only because the ten commandments are revised. Such a thought, of course, is impious and beyond the power of the human race."

STANDARD OIL VOTES EXTRA CASH DIVIDEND

Chicago, Aug. 2.—(UP)—For the third time this year, directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, today, voted an extra cash dividend.

The dividend, which is payable September 15, calls for a regular payment of 6 3/4 cents on each share of capital stock and of an extra dividend of 25 cents a share.

Rome, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The dirigible EN-2 fell in the sea today near Gaeta. Two persons were reported drowned but the others on board were saved.

Hangs Out of Flame Filled Window, Babe In Each Arm, Thrills Crowd

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Hanging precariously out of a flame filled window, a babe in each arm, Mrs. Irene Foley today provided scores of neighbors with a real life drama that might well serve as a fitting climax to a movie thriller.

Hysterically shouting for help after she had discovered a fire raging in her home, Mrs. Foley picked up her daughter, Marilyn, and her

PAVED HIGHWAY BETWEEN DULUTH AND TWIN CITIES

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The long awaited continuous paved highway between the Twin Cities and Duluth is in sight.

State Highway Commissioner C. M. Babcock announced today that on August 24, bids will be received for grading and paving 15 miles of trunk highway No. 1 in Chicago county. This will leave an unpaved gap of 15 miles between the Twin Cities and Duluth and the commissioner believes bids can be opened for that stretch within the present year.

NEW MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION HAS BEEN ORGANIZED

TAKES IN REPRESENTATIVES
FROM 9 NORTHWEST AND
MIDDLE WEST STATES

CHRISTENED NEW BODY THE NA-TIONAL MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Representatives of merchants from nine northwest and middle west states, meeting at the St. Paul Athletic club, late Tuesday formed a new merchants' association. It was named the National Merchants Association.

The purpose of the new organization is to provide means for interchange of advertising, display and merchandising suggestions among the members over a wide area. Merchants of any state in the Union and Canada, may become members, it was announced.

Meetings probably will be held semi-annually.

BALANCES IN STATE FUNDS REMAIN UNCHANGED

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Balances in state funds July 31 this year were practically unchanged from a year ago.

This was revealed by the fiscal report yesterday of A. W. Stark, state treasurer, showing the total of all funds to be $13,218,757 compared to $13,446,540 a year ago.

The state revenue fund totalled $2,673,463, an increase of about $150,000 from the total of $2,520,422 of July 31, 1925. The three financially important counties, Ramsey, Hennepin and St. Louis, have not yet reported.

The trunk highway fund totalled $2,531,268; general school fund, $1,112,943; state prison revolving fund $1,287,995; university building fund $763,298; general university fund, $765,185, and other funds made up the balance.

The state retired $1,200,000 soldiers' bonus bonds July 31, and paid $267,000 interest on soldiers' bonus bonds.

Mrs. Foley and Marie Clements, 12, managed to climb down a porch standard and escape the flames. However, after getting out of the place, they remembered that Elroy, a four-year-old boy, was in the place. Firemen rescued the boy from beneath the radio table where he had crawled.

Both babies were uninjured. The spectator walked away without giving his name.

POINCARE MOVES TO STABILIZE THE FRENCH FRANC

GOVERNMENT INTRODUCES INTO
CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES
PROPOSED PLAN

BANK OF FRANCE IS GIVEN WID-ER POWER IN BUYING
FRENCH GOLD

Paris, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Premier Poincare today moved toward stabilizing the franc. The government introduced into the chamber of deputies a project to permit operations preliminary to stabilization.

In presenting the project to the chamber, Poincare confirmed the belief that the government intends to stabilize the franc only after its value has risen from the present level.

The first article of the government's project authorizes the bank of France to purchase foreign currencies. The bank of France would be able to issue bank notes in amounts corresponding to the purchases of gold or foreign currency, according to the project and the minister of finance would be authorized to sign with the bank within three months after the bill was promulgated all agreements preparatory to stabilization of the franc.

The second article authorizes the bank to purchase foreign currencies. The bank of France would be able to issue bank notes in amounts corresponding to the purchases of gold or foreign currency, according to the project and the minister of finance would be authorized to sign with the bank within three months after the bill was promulgated all agreements preparatory to stabilization of the franc.

ALLEGED LOVE CULT PROBED

OPERATING UNDER NAME OF
SCHOOL OF SACRED SCIENCE,
BOSTON

Boston, Aug. 4.—(UP)—An alleged love cult under the name of the School of Sacred Science was investigated today by District Attorney O'Brien. He acted after an application had been made by the school for incorporation.

A closed hearing at which witnesses to the activities of the group were questioned has been held. The practices of the members of the cult were described as "repulsive to decent people."

NOVEL NUMBER AT CHURCH PICNIC, DULUTH

Duluth, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The First Baptist church picnic here this afternoon will furnish something of an innovation in the line of entertainment, when the newly appointed pastor, Rev. W. Holt Smith, is to step into roped ring, don boxing gloves and face his opponent, Leslie S. High, local attorney, in one of the main bouts of the event.

Both men are said to be highly proficient with their "mitts" and much interest in the set-to is evidenced.

It was not announced how many rounds the "fighting pastor" would "go." High is a trustee of the church.

LABORITE EFFORT TO PREVENT ADJOURNING PARLIAMENT FAILS

London, Aug. 4.—(UP)—A laborite effort to prevent adjournment of parliament today until November 9 failed by a vote of 173 to 49 after Joseph Batey, a labor member, had moved to amend the adjournment motion saying that "the country was going to the dogs."

"The country today is in worse shape than it was last year and is far worse than when the present government took office two years ago," Batey said. "This government has smashed the industrial machine and plunged the working classes into the deepest poverty."

Batey proposed that, in view of the coal crisis, the parliament should adjourn only until August 17.

ILLINOIS ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE CALLED

ASKED TO TESTIFY BY CHAIR-MAN REED OF SENATE PRI-
MARY PROBERS

SUBPOENA ISSUED FOR STATE
SUPERINTENDENT OF LEAGUE
TO TESTIFY

By PAUL R. MAILLON

Chicago, Aug. 4.—The Illinois Anti-Saloon League was called on by Chairman Jim Reed of the senate primary investigating committee, to bare its activities in the state's $1,000,000 primary.

A subpoena immediately returnable was issued for Dr. George S. Shaffer, Monmouth, Ill., state superintendent of the league, to have him relate to the committee the part played by the drys in the republican and democratic nominating race.

Inasmuch as the league had endorsed both Frank L. Smith, successful, and Senator McKinley, unsuccessful candidates for the nomination, and made no stiff fight against George Brennan, wet, who received the democratic senatorial nomination, the committee betrayed no expectations that any unusual activity might be discerned.

Reed, however, intends that the record should be complete and is determined to find out just what the league did.

With this evidence and clearance of a few stray but important angles of the primary, Reed intends to close his inquiry Thursday or Friday and adjourn indefinitely.

Chief among the other witnesses subpoenaed are Clement Studebaker and Ira C. Copley, public utilities magnates, who contributed $20,000 and $25,000 respectively to the campaign of Smith, chairman of the public utilities commission. Studebaker is understood to be in New Hampshire and may not be obtained, but Copley has informed the committee he intends to be present.

Samuel Insull, public utilities king, who is slated to deliver his long delayed answer to the committee's demand that he bare every detail of his participation in the last campaign whether it concerns the senatorial or the county tickets.

Morris Eller, a leader in the famous 20th ward of Chicago, has notified the committee he cannot appear and it was a delay in his testimony that caused Reed to postpone adjournment which he had hoped to reach today.

Smith, winner of the republican nomination, is expected to file before night his answer to the charges and insinuations made in the testimony and rest on this statement on his quest for election in November.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Ira C. Copley, public utilities man of Aurora, Ill., who gave $20,000 to the senatorial republican campaign of Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Illinois public utilities commission, told the senate investigating committee today his company had received an increase in rates last November 11.

Copley said his first contribution to Smith's campaign was made in December and another in February. He could not remember the amounts.

Copley said he was a publisher and had sold his interest in the Western United Gas & Electric Company, al-

HEAVY BANK WITHDRAWALS BEING MADE

FINANCIAL STATUS DISTURBS
GROUP OF MEXICAN
BANKERS

CALL ON FINANCE SECRETARY
AND OFFER TO MEDIATE IN
RELIGIOUS CONTROVERSY

By A. W. FOLGER

Mexico City, Aug. 4.—Pointing out that heavy bank withdrawals were occurring in the religious and economic situation and expressing their belief the matter would become serious if withdrawals continue until Saturday, a group of bankers has called on Secretary Finance Alberto J. Pani, offering to mediate in the religious issue.

The United Press understands from an unusually reliable source that bank withdrawals yesterday stood at about 17,000,000 pesos. Bankers admitted heavy withdrawals and buying of New York drafts but did not state the amounts.

There are three points in the mediation project which the Mexican Episcopate would be willing to accept if an accord were reached. They are:

1. Suspension of the application of the present religious laws.

2. Re-entry to churches by the Episcopate.

3. A national plebiscite on the question at the end of the year.

No agreement has yet been reached, but conferences will continue. Pani will take the offer before President Calles at the first opportunity.

The United Press learned authoritatively that officials of petroleum companies here are also interested in the economic situation and are willing to aid the others in mediation efforts. Prominent Catholics are also associated with the bankers' group.

Augustin Le Gorrette, chairman of the board of directors of Mexico's National bank, heads the bankers' committee treating for mediation.

Meanwhile Pasquel Diaz, bishop of Tabasco, categorically denied reports circulated in the United States that mediation proposals have been made by the church to the government. He said no proposals would be made until the suspension of the new religious laws, and that proposals other than those which might possibly be made by diplomats must come from the government after suspension or reform of the laws.

He admitted, however, that he had mentioned those points in informal conversations with Attorney General Ortega.

25 TELEGRAPH OPERATORS STRIKE

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Twenty-five telegraph operators in the Chicago office of Lamson Bros., grain brokers, went on a strike yesterday for increased wages. Company officials said that the operators were asking from $5 to $8 a week increase and had refused to confer for a wage agreement. Union officials said the company officials had refused to meet the operators' representatives.

CLAIM ARSENAL NOT LARGE ENOUGH

LAKE DENMARK NAVAL ARSEN-AL RECOMMENDED TO BE REBUILT

Washington, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The Lake Denmark naval arsenal which exploded with an official damage of $47,000,000 and loss of 21 lives, was not large enough for storage of vast amounts of high explosives, according to the report yesterday of the board of inquiry which investigated the July disaster.

Recommendations that the arsenal be rebuilt and that congress be asked to authorize two new type explosive arsenals, one on the east coast and one on the west coast territory, each covering at least 100 square miles, were made.

A "neutral zone" two miles wide should surround such arsenals, the report said.

Hangs Out of Flame Filled Window, Babe In Each Arm, Thrills Crowd

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Hanging precariously out of a flame filled window, a babe in each arm,

Mrs. Irene Foley today provided scores of neighbors with a real life drama that might well serve as a fitting climax to a movie thriller.

Hysterically shouting for help after she had discovered a fire raging in her home, Mrs. Foley picked up her daughter, Marilyn, and her

PAVED HIGHWAY BETWEEN DULUTH AND TWIN CITIES

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The long awaited continuous paved highway between the Twin Cities and Duluth is in sight.

State Highway Commissioner C. M. Babcock announced today that on August 24, bids will be received for grading and paving 15 miles of trunk highway No. 1 in Chicago county. This will leave an unpaved gap of 15 miles between the Twin Cities and Duluth and the commissioner believes bids can be opened for that stretch within the present year.

NEW MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION HAS BEEN ORGANIZED

TAKES IN REPRESENTATIVES
FROM 9 NORTHWEST AND
MIDDLE WEST STATES

CHRISTENED NEW BODY THE NATIONAL MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Representatives of merchants from nine northwest and middle west states, meeting at the St. Paul Athletic club, late Tuesday formed a new merchants' association. It was named the National Merchants Association.

The purpose of the new organization is to provide means for interchange of advertising, display and merchandising suggestions among the members over a wide area. Merchants of any state in the Union and Canada, may become members. It was announced.

BALANCES IN STATE FUNDS REMAIN UNCHANGED

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Balances in state funds July 31 this year were practically unchanged from a year ago.

This was revealed by the fiscal report yesterday of A. W. Stark, state treasurer, showing the total of all funds to be $13,218,757 compared to $13,446,540 a year ago.

The state revenue fund totalled $2,673,463, an increase of about $150,000 from the total of $2,520,422 of July 31, 1925. The three financially important counties, Ramsey, Hennepin and St. Louis, have not yet reported.

The trunk highway fund totalled $2,531,268; general school fund, $1,112,943; state prison revolving fund $1,287,995; university building fund $763,298; general university fund, $765,185, and other funds made up the balance.

The state retired $1,200,000 soldiers' bonus bonds July 31, and paid $267,000 interest on soldiers' bonus bonds.

POINCARÉ MOVES TO STABILIZE THE FRENCH FRANC

GOVERNMENT INTRODUCES INTO
CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES
PROPOSED PLAN

BANK OF FRANCE IS GIVEN WIDER
POWER IN BUYING
FRENCH GOLD

Paris, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Premier Poincaré today moved toward stabilizing the franc. The government introduced into the chamber of deputies a project to permit operations preliminary to stabilization.

In presenting the project to the chamber, Poincaré confirmed the belief that the government intends to stabilize the franc only after its value has risen from the present level.

The first article of the government's project authorizes the bank of France to purchase French gold at a higher rate than that for paper money.

The second article authorizes the bank to purchase foreign currencies. The bank of France would be able to issue bank notes in amounts corresponding to the purchases of gold or foreign currency, according to the project and the minister of finance would be authorized to sign with the bank within three months after the bill was promulgated all agreements preparatory to stabilization of the franc.

ALLEGED LOVE CULT PROBED

OPERATING UNDER NAME OF
SCHOOL OF SACRED SCIENCE,
BOSTON

Boston, Aug. 4.—(UP)—An alleged love cult under the name of the School of Sacred Science was investigated today by District Attorney O'Brien. He acted after an application had been made by the school for incorporation.

A closed hearing at which witnesses to the activities of the group were questioned has been held. The practices of the members of the cult were described as "repulsive to decent people."

NOVEL NUMBER AT CHURCH PICNIC, DULUTH

Duluth, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The First Baptist church picnic here this afternoon will furnish something of an innovation in the line of entertainment, when the newly appointed pastor, Rev. W. Holt Smith, is to step into roped ring, don boxing gloves and face as his opponent, Leslie S. High, local attorney, in one of the main bouts of the event.

Both men are said to be highly proficient with their "mitts" and much interest in the set-to is evidenced.

It was not announced how many rounds the "fighting pastor" would "go." High is a trustee of the church.

The home was completely destroyed.

Mrs. Foley and Marie Clements, 12, managed to climb down a porch standard and escape the flames. However, after getting out of the place, they remembered that Elroy, a four-year-old boy, was in the place. Firemen rescued the boy from beneath the radio table where he had crawled.

Both babies were uninjured. The spectator walked away without giving his name.

LABORITE EFFORT TO PREVENT ADJOURNING PARLIAMENT FAILS

London, Aug. 4.—(UP)—A laborite effort to prevent adjournment of parliament today until November 9 failed by a vote of 173 to 49 after Joseph Batey, a labor member, had moved to amend the adjournment motion saying that "the country was going to the dogs."

"The country today is in worse shape than it was last year and is far worse than when the present government took office two years ago," Batey said. "This government has smashed the industrial machine and plunged the working classes into the deepest poverty."

Batey proposed that, in view of the coal crisis, the parliament should adjourn only until August 17.

ILLINOIS ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE CALLED

ASKED TO TESTIFY BY CHAIRMAN REED OF SENATE PRIMARY PROBERS

SUBPOENA ISSUED FOR STATE
SUPERINTENDENT OF LEAGUE
TO TESTIFY

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Aug. 4.—The Illinois Anti-Saloon League was called on by Chairman Jim Reed of the senate primary investigating committee, to bare its activities in the state's $1,000,000 primary.

A subpoena immediately returnable was issued for Dr. George S. Shaffer, Monmouth, Ill., state superintendent of the league, to have him relate to the committee the part played by the drys in the republican and democratic nominating race.

Inasmuch as the league had endorsed both Frank L. Smith, successful, and Senator McKinley, unsuccessful candidates for the nomination, and made no stiff fight against George Brennan, wet, who received the democratic senatorial nomination, the committee betrayed no expectations that any unusual activity might be discerned.

Reed, however, intends that the record should be complete and is determined to find out just what the league did.

With this evidence and clearance of a few stray but important angles of the primary, Reed intends to close his inquiry Thursday or Friday and adjourn indefinitely.

Chief among the other witnesses subpoenaed are Clement Studebaker and Ira C. Copley, public utilities magnates, who contributed $20,000 and $25,000 respectively to the campaign of Smith, chairman of the public utilities commission. Studebaker is understood to be in New Hampshire and may not be obtained, but Copley has informed the committee he intends to be present.

Samuel Insull, public utilities king, who is slated to deliver his long delayed answer to the committee's demand that he bare every detail of his participation in the last campaign whether it concerns the senatorial or the county tickets.

Morris Eller, a leader in the famous 20th ward of Chicago, has notified the committee he cannot appear and it was a delay in his testimony that caused Reed to postpone adjournment which he had hoped to reach today.

Smith, winner of the republican nomination, is expected to file before night his answer to the charges and insinuations made in the testimony and rest on this statement on his quest for election in November.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Ira C. Copley, public utilities man of Aurora, Ill., who gave $20,000 to the senatorial republican campaign of Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Illinois public utilities commission, told the senate investigating committee today his company had received an increase in rates last November 11.

Copley said his first contribution to Smith's campaign was made in December and another in February. He could not remember the amounts.

Copley said he was a publisher and had sold his interest in the Western United Gas & Electric Company, al-

HEAVY BANK WITHDRAWALS BEING MADE

FINANCIAL STATUS DISTURBS
GROUP OF MEXICAN
BANKERS

CALL ON FINANCE SECRETARY
AND OFFER TO MEDIATE IN
RELIGIOUS CONTROVERSY

By A. W. FOLGER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Mexico City, Aug. 4.—Pointing out that heavy bank withdrawals were occurring in the religious and economic situation and expressing their belief the matter would become serious if withdrawals continue until Saturday, a group of bankers has called on Secretary Finance Alberto J. Pani, offering to mediate in the religious issue.

The United Press understands from an unusually reliable source that bank withdrawals yesterday stood at about 17,000,000 pesos. Bankers admitted heavy withdrawals and buying of New York drafts but did not state the amounts.

There are three points in the mediation project which the Mexican Episcopate would be willing to accept if an accord were reached. They are:

1. Suspension of the application of the present religious laws.
2. Re-entry to churches by the Episcopate.
3. A national plebiscite on the question at the end of the year.

No agreement has yet been reached, but conferences will continue.

Pani will take the offer before President Calles at the first opportunity.

The United Press learned authoritatively that officials of petroleum companies here are also interested in the economic situation and are willing to aid the others in mediation efforts. Prominent Catholics are also associated with the bankers' group.

Augustin Le Gorrette, chairman of the board of directors of Mexico's National bank, heads the bankers' committee treating for mediation.

Meanwhile Pasquel Diaz, bishop of Tabasco, categorically denied reports circulated in the United States that mediation proposals have been made by the church to the government. He said no proposals would be made until the suspension of the new religious laws, and that proposals other than those which might possibly be made by diplomats must come from the government after suspension or reform of the laws.

He admitted, however, that he had mentioned those points in informal conversations with Attorney General Ortega.

25 TELEGRAPH OPERATORS STRIKE

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Twenty-five telegraph operators in the Chicago office of Lamson Bros., grain brokers, went on a strike yesterday for increased wages. Company officials said that the operators were asking from $5 to $8 a week increase and had refused to confer for a wage agreement. Union officials said the company officials had refused to meet the operators' representatives.

CLAIM ARSENAL NOT LARGE ENOUGH

LAKE DENMARK NAVAL ARSENAL RECOMMENDED TO BE REBUILT

Washington, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The Lake Denmark naval arsenal which exploded with an official damage of $47,000,000 and loss of 21 lives, was not large enough for storage of vast amounts of high explosives, according to the report yesterday of the board of inquiry which investigated the July disaster.

Recommendations that the arsenal be rebuilt and that congress be asked to authorize two new type explosive arsenals, one on the east coast and one on the west coast territory, each covering at least 100 square miles, were made.

A "neutral zone" two miles wide should surround such arsenals, the report said.

You Cannot
Always Tell

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

THE sun-browned young man in riding trousers at the far end of the veranda looked speculatively after the smartly dressed young woman who had just flitted down the hotel steps. There was something about her which seemed to say "I am" and "I belong." Hartley had no doubt about that. He had long wanted to meet her, but, strangely enough, she seemed to know no one among the guests at the hotel and kept decidedly by herself.

Leisurely, he rose and sauntered slowly off in the direction that the young lady, listed simply as C. Blake in the register, had taken. Now it happened that a dilapidated old flivver was parked at the summit of a short but very steep grade ascending from the main thoroughfare of the village. Standing at the curb and insufficiently blocked, it suddenly wheeled into motion and began a rapid descent, driverless, down to the crossing below.

With a fearful speed it came down, heading straight for a group of pedestrians just as Hartley glimpsed. In that group, the silk-sweatered form of the girl he was trailing. He saw the menacing flivver before she did and, without an instant's hesitation, catapulted against her in such a way as to push her ahead out of the way, plunging forward himself but escaping only by a narrow margin the terrific impact of the machine.

The incident needs no further dwelling upon. It had served its purpose. Having one's life saved is sufficient introduction for most of us and a few brief words—"Why, yes, we are at the same hotel, are we not?" and "I am sure I remember you" established them further on cordial ground.

Not until Hartley reached his room did he realize that names had not passed between them, although, for that matter, she might as easily discover his name as he had discovered hers.

However, the following morning as they met on the veranda, Hartley hastened to repair the omission. "I forgot to mention yesterday," he said rather hesitantly, "I am Hartley Van Buren."

The girl looked up at him quickly. "I—I am the Princess Olga of Russia," she laughed.

But Hartley didn't like the laugh. It was quite evident that she didn't believe him.

In the days that followed, their acquaintance ripened into friendship which seemed in turn about to ripen into something even deeper and more lasting. There was always a slight pause when each addressed the other by name, but the subject had not been mentioned again between them. In fact, personalities had been rather avoided between them beyond those which dealt with the various tastes and interests they found that they shared.

Then, one afternoon, after a long delightful hour on the beach, "Princess Olga" had occasion to open her little beaded purse and, as she did so, out dropped a card.

Hartley bent to pick it up and, as he did so, could not avoid seeing the printed inscription.

Coralie Blake, manicurist. Now Hartley did not see anything remotely disgraceful in being a manicurist. To him it seemed as honorable a way of earning a living as any other. What really troubled him was the girl's deceit.

Not that she had ever said right out and out that she was not a manicurist! No, indeed. But she had led him to believe that she had spent her life in a far different sort of way—travel, study, charities such as only the rich indulge in.

Hartley braced himself. "Princess," he said, "I couldn't help seeing what was on that card."

Coralie looked up at him, puzzled. Then, "Oh, yes," she said.

He waited for her to go on while he watched her miserably and realized that he adored every crinkly curl on her aristocratic little head.

"You—you think I am a dreadful fraud?" she said finally. Then, with a level glance, "How about yourself?"

"Me?" he asked blankly.

"Yes," said Coralie. "You." She drew from her pocket a torn bit of the photograph section of a metropolitan newspaper. "How are you enjoying Europe?"

Hartley viewed the picture—that of a young man, grip laden, his back to the photographer, about to board an outgoing ocean liner. "Hartley Van Buren, the banker's only son, about to sail."

"Discovered," said Hartley meekly. Then he threw back his head and laughed long and merrily. "It all hinges on that little word 'about.' I was hooked to sail. Got my luggage aboard. But I stepped ashore and the boat left without me. Ran down here to go over on my next trip."

Coralie dimpled. "My mistake. Only—just see how easily you were deluded also. This Coralie Blake of the card was a little protégée of mine down in Neighborhood house whose name in her own tongue somewhat resembled mine, so, out of a strange fondness for me, she persisted in adopting it as hers, too! I don't often call myself Princess Olga, although, born in Russia with my mother an American and my father a Prince Boris, I am rightly entitled to do so."

Hartley seized the hand which was lying nearest him.

"Don't you think two such skeptical idiots ought to join forces?" he asked.

CAT MIXED UP
WITH CAR FAN

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Arthur Sanger parked his automobile down town. A couple of hours later he came back and started the motor. Shrieks, yells, screeches came out from beneath the hood.

That can't be right, thought Arthur, so he raised the hood.

Then he dragged forth a cat that was much the worse for an encounter with the fan. A veterinary was called and applied chloroform to end the cat's misery.

"That," said Arthur, "is a sort of catatony—err, no, a categorical situation, one might say."

You Cannot
Always Tell

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

THE sun-browned young man in riding trousers at the far end of the veranda looked speculatively after the smartly dressed young woman who had just flitted down the hotel steps. There was something about her which seemed to say "I am" and "I belong." Hartley had no doubt about that. He had long wanted to meet her, but, strangely enough, she seemed to know no one among the guests at the hotel and kept decidedly by herself.

Leisurely, he rose and sauntered slowly off in the direction that the young lady, listed simply as C. Blake in the register, had taken. Now it happened that a dilapidated old flivver was parked at the summit of a short but very steep grade ascending from the main thoroughfare of the village. Standing at the curb and insufficiently blocked, it suddenly wheeled into motion and began a rapid descent, driverless, down to the crossing below.

With a fearful speed it came down, heading straight for a group of pedestrians just as Hartley glimpsed, in that group, the silk-sweatered form of the girl he was trailing. He saw the menacing flivver before she did and, without an instant's hesitation, catapulted against her in such a way as to push her ahead out of the way, plunging forward himself but escaping only by a narrow margin the terrific impact of the machine.

The incident needs no further dwelling upon. It had served its purpose. Having one's life saved is sufficient introduction for most of us and a few brief words—"Why, yes, we are at the same hotel, are we not?" and "I am sure I remember you" established them further on cordial ground.

Not until Hartley reached his room did he realize that names had not passed between them, although, for that matter, she might as easily discover his name as he had discovered hers.

However, the following morning as they met on the veranda, Hartley hastened to repair the omission. "I forgot to mention yesterday," he said rather hesitantly, "I am Hartley Van Buren."

The girl looked up at him quickly. "I—I am the Princess Olga of Russia," she laughed.

But Hartley didn't like the laugh. It was quite evident that she didn't believe him.

In the days that followed, their acquaintance ripened into friendship

which seemed in turn about to ripen into something even deeper and more lasting. There was always a slight pause when each addressed the other by name, but the subject had not been mentioned again between them. In fact, personalities had been rather avoided between them beyond those which dealt with the various tastes and interests they found that they shared.

Then, one afternoon, after a long delightful hour on the beach, "Princess Olga" had occasion to open her little beaded purse and, as she did so, out dropped a card.

Hartley bent to pick it up and, as he did so, could not avoid seeing the printed inscription.

Coralie Blake, manicurist.

Now Hartley did not see anything remotely disgraceful in being a manicurist. To him it seemed as honorable a way of earning a living as any other. What really troubled him was the girl's deceit.

Not that she had ever said right out and out that she was not a manicurist! No, indeed. But she had led him to believe that she had spent her life in a far different sort of way—travel, study, charities such as only the rich indulge in.

Hartley braced himself. "Princess," he said, "I couldn't help seeing what was on that card."

Coralie looked up at him, puzzled. Then, "Oh, yes," she said.

He waited for her to go on while he watched her miserably and realized that he adored every crinkly curl on her aristocratic little head.

"You—you think I am a dreadful fraud?" she said finally. Then, with a level glance, "How about yourself?"

"Me?" he asked blankly.

"Yes," said Coralie. "You." She drew from her pocket a torn bit of the photograph section of a metropolitan newspaper. "How are you enjoying Europe?"

Hartley viewed the picture—that of a young man, grip laden, his back to the photographer, about to board an outgoing ocean liner. "Hartley Van Buren, the banker's only son, about to sail."

"Discovered," said Hartley meekly. Then he threw back his head and laughed long and merrily. "It all hinges on that little word 'about.' I was hooked to sail. Got my luggage aboard. But I stepped ashore and the boat left without me. Ran down here to go over on her next trip."

Coralie dimpled. "My mistake. Only—just see how easily you were deluded also. This Coralie Blake of the card was a little protégé of mine down in Neighborhood house whose name in her own tongue somewhat resembled mine, so, out of a strange fondness for me, she persisted in adopting it as hers, too! I don't often call myself Princess Olga, although, born in Russia with my mother an American and my father a Prince Boris, I am rightly entitled to do so."

Hartley seized the hand which was lying nearest him.

"Don't you think two such skeptical idiots ought to join forces?" he asked.

CAT MIXED UP
WITH CAR FAN

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Arthur Sanger parked his automobile down town. A couple of hours later he came back and started the motor.

Shrieks, yells, screeches came out from beneath the hood.

That can't be right, thought Arthur, so he raised the hood.

Then he dragged forth a cat that was much the worse for an encounter with the fan. A veterinary was called and applied chloroform to end the cat's misery.

"That," said Arthur, "is a sort of cataclysm—errr, no, a categorical situation, one might say."

SCHOOL BOARD'S MANY BUILDING PROBLEMS

Schools in City Are Being Improved for Opening of the Fall Term

Work Includes Cement Work, Painting Job, and General Work Repair

Building matters occupied considerable time last evening at the meeting of the Brainerd Board of Education, the building committee submitting a report of the work done during the past month, the work in part being the advertising for bids for painting work, cement work, and the installation of steel ceilings in certain schools.

Bids for the painting were received from Dryberg and Bacon for $869.50 and F. H. McCaffrey for $940.00. The bid of Dryberg and Bacon was accepted. Each school will receive its share in the painting to be done.

The installation of steel ceilings will include the hallways of the Whittier school, one room in the Lowell school, and three at the Washington building. The bid of Vernon White for $700 for this work was accepted. The other bid of $766 was tendered by J. P. Eggerling.

The bid of Thompson Brothers and Clausen of $175 for cement work to be done in the basement of the Whittier building was accepted by the board. The other bid of $181.60 was tendered by Charles Peterson.

The building committee were directed to advertise for bids for the resingling with composition shingle and placing new tin decking gutters, etc., on the roofs of the Lincoln building and the west half of old part of the Lowell building. Bids will be opened by the board at a special session on August 19.

The committee reported on general repaving having been done at the Harrison school and gutter work repaired on the south half of the Washington building.

The committee further reported that in the matter of purchase of playground equipment for the Lincoln school, the specified equipment would amount to more than the $200 allotted. A short while ago the Lincoln Parent Teachers Association donated $100 towards playground equipment with the provision that the school board donate the same amount. The equipment which the L. P. T. A. asked for was two sets of swings of nine swings to a set. The committee was instructed to purchase one set of swings and to advise the Lincoln P. T. A. of their action.

A communication was received from Secretary Al Dillan of the Y. M. C. A. asking for permission of the Washington school building to hold a banquet and a lecture during the Older Boys Conference to be held in Brainerd on November 12, 13, and 14. The board granted the use of the gymnasium and the assembly room.

The board refused permission to an outside dramatic organization to put on their show on the property belonging to the school district. The board does not begrudge the use of the grounds to local benefit shows but they are not anxious to make a commercial proposition out of it.

J. L. Thompson, of the Travelers Insurance Co. advised new chemicals to be used in the water boilers in the different schools. The matter is under consideration.

A communication was received from the Oliver Machinery Co. of Minneapolis advertising their rip saw machinery for manual training departments. The matter was referred to the industrial committee which consists of M. E. Morrison and R. W. Crust.

The janitors at the different schools were reappointed, their contracts to run from month to month. The following are the janitors of the different schools: Washington, Martin Swanson with Andrew Gile, assistant; Lincoln, Frank Peters, Whittier, John R. Webster; Lowell, Erick Erickson; Harrison, John P. Johnson; Riverside, John Bushway, Garfield, A. J. Johnson.

The teachers committee were authorized to employ an additional teacher at large for the Lowell and Whittier schools.

The fuel committee were directed to advertise for bids for 400 tons of screened splint coal as much of this amount as can be stored to be taken at once, the balance to be subject to call of the board at any time prior to April 1, 1927. Bids for the coal will be opened at the special meeting on August 19.

The matter of letting the contract for the weather stripping and calking of the Lowell, Harrison, Lincoln and Riverside schools was deferred till the special meeting on August 19. The board failed to arrive to any conclusion on this matter. Bids were received from the Chamberlain people of Minneapolis through their local agent Charles Hoffman and from Henry Caron, of Brainerd who is handling the Ceco Weather stripping.

All members were present with the exception of K. S. Bredenberg, G. B. Falconer, Fred Drexler.

AUTO CARNIVAL DATE

Postponed Till Friday Night on Account of Laying of Elks Home Corner Stone

The Girl Scouts auto carnival, scheduled to be held at Camp Clearwater on Thursday night, has been postponed until Friday night of this week on account of the laying of the corner stone of the Elks building in Brainerd on Thursday evening. The carnival will take the form of a picnic. The picnicers will gather at 5 P. M.

GARLAND FREIGHTER POUNDING ON ROCKS

San Francisco, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The Garland freighter Norlana with 46 men aboard is pounding against the rocks off Horseshoe Point 100 miles north of the Golden Gate and is reported in a critical condition.

Around since 2 o'clock this morning, the Norlana's hold is taking water rapidly and may sink in rough seas, Captain N. O. Soderlund radioed. The dense fog which caused the vessel to go aground continued to hang over the sea at a late hour today, hampering attempts of rescuing boats to reach the vessel's side.

AIM TO STOP FLOW OF POISON LIQUOR FROM U. S.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Government authorities have announced a reorganization of Canada's customs department in order to prevent the flow of poison liquor from the United States into Canada.

The Canadian customs department will be reorganized along the Niagara front and St. Lawrence river. Arrangements will be made to inform United States authorities of smuggling.

EXPECTS SENSATION IN EXPOSITION OF JUVENILE VICE

Denver, Colo., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Inquiry into an alleged vice ring involving, according to Acting District Attorney J. P. O'Connor, a number of high school boys, university students and Denver men, was begun here today following arrest of four men.

Those arrested are Richard Begthol, photographer; Dr. Ralph Kontz, dentist; W. W. Wilson, hotel clerk, and Leslie Mercer.

The vice being held for investigation. O'Connor said he expected to expose a juvenile vice ring of a sensational nature and added other arrests would follow.

ASTOUNDING CONFESSION MAY BE TRUTHFUL

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 4.—(UP)—That the astounding confession of Thomas Johnson, 54, "man of many crimes," may be true, was the belief of police here today, who assert that Johnson is "undoubtedly insane."

Two Minneapolis detectives are here investigating Johnson's story that he shot and killed Leonard Erdale, Minneapolis attorney, during a robbery.

Johnson told authorities he committed 14 murders and countless holdups in the middle west in the last 20 years.

H. A. Fowler, former railroad fireman, said he remembered that an unidentified man had been thrown to death from his train near Appleton, Wis., last spring. This checks with Johnson's admission of having thrown an I. W. W. from a train near Appleton last year.

Filipinos Hold Firmly to Belief in Witches

Witchery still continues as a source of trouble in the Philippines and hardly a week passes that the constabulary does not investigate the beating or killing of some person suspected of being a witch.

The Filipino witch, as Charles F. Freeman in the New York Tribune explains, is thought to possess the power to take on the shape of a beast at will and to work evil at a long distance. According to the strength of his magic he can cause a selected victim to become seriously ill or to die, and a credulous native, suffering from some malady which he does not understand, believes he has been bewitched.

Sometimes a witch doctor, exasperated by bad luck, will designate a man or woman as being the guilty "man-kukulan," and the innocent suspect falls a victim to mob violence.

Little Visits

Around the Rural Section

Written especially for the Dispatch by W. H. Triplett, travelling editor for this paper and The Farmer of St. Paul.

Tuesday morning I went to work without a coat and before very long I began to wish I had one. Evidently some surrounding country had rain.

When travelling through the country from farm to farm one cannot help but see the way corn has stretched up the last few weeks. In going across the field where C. F. Peterson was cutting hay, I noticed his field of six acres which has about the best stand of corn I have seen on the route. Mr. Peterson remarked that he believed a large percent of the poor corn in the county was due to poor seed. He says that too many farmers depend on getting their seed corn out of the crib and one can not expect to get good seed by following such practice. Every farmer should make it a point to select his seed early in the fall before frost and after selecting, store it in a cool dry place, thus always assuring a good quality of seed. Mr. Peterson came here from Iowa in 1908 and now has a well improved farm of 160 acres. Every type of machine may be found on his place including a threshing machine. He finished harvesting yesterday and within a few weeks he will be tuning up the threshing rig.

Five years ago Frank Every moved from Winona county to Crow Wing where opportunities were greater and has farmed 135 acres since that time. He is milking six cows of mixed breed.

I did not get to see Delbert Busby, but from the appearance of the place and progress he has made the past three years, he will be very successful in the farming enterprise. Mr. Busby cleared and broke 12 acres this spring and has the best field of clover I have seen on any route.

Art Gage has farmed 80 acres for the last 22 years and is getting along first rate. He, too, has 12 acres of corn that would be hard to beat in the county. From 10-12 acres of clover are seeded annually which is used for hay and to build up the soil. A tractor is used for shredding corn and grinding feed and for the many other jobs on the farm where such power can be used so advantageously.

M. Lockwood also formerly lived in Winona county, coming to this section of the country three years ago and making dairying and poultry raising his major enterprises. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood have had considerable sickness this spring and summer which has put them somewhat behind with their work. Mr. Lockwood's son, C. Lockwood has farmed in Crow Wing county for the last nine years, having 200 acres 80 of which are under cultivation; nine cows of mixed breed are milked.

There is an old saying that 13 is an unlucky number; evidently it is for Jess Britton has had more than his share of hard luck. This spring his house burned to the ground, not a stitch of clothing or a piece of furniture being saved. A few weeks ago one of his best dairy cows turned up her toes. We all hope this luck has changed for the better. He has farmed 160 acres for 13 years, having two silos to supply him with succulent feed for his dairy cows. A Red Poll sire is at the head of his herd of 12 milk cows. I wish to call attention again to those farmers having purebred sires to start getting them ready for the county fair.

A county fair should be a general roundup of economic and social life of the county. A fair could be made more of an educational agency than it is now by providing for programs dealing with public topics for the evening, consisting of music and educational lectures, movies, etc. A county fair or any fair cannot be successful without the cooperation of the farmers in the community.

Monarch of Small Realm

Another king has died and his passing was scarcely noted. He was Love Pritchard, eighty-four years old, reigning monarch of Bardsey Island, southwest of Carnarvonshire, since 1911, when he succeeded John II, who abdicated. At one time the inhabitants of Bardsey Island numbered 100, but they gradually dwindled to 40 and last year King Pritchard and his subjects abandoned the island and moved to the mainland.

Early Peoples Knew of Possibilities of Iron

The peoples of the Near East were among the earliest manufacturers of iron, according to Dr. J. Newton Friend in an address before the members of the Royal Institution, London. In 1300 B. C. the Hittites were using iron weapons in their numerous wars, and among the treasures of early history preserved to posterity is a letter thought to have been addressed to Rameses II of Egypt from the Hittite king, saying that he is sending with the communication an iron dagger.

The Romans were skilled metallurgists with considerable knowledge of how to handle iron ores. Virgil's Aeneid, written around 40 B. C., contains an account of a smithy in full blast, and Pliny in his "Natural History," which was brought out in 77 A. D., shows an equal familiarity with the working of the metal. An iron ring recently unearthed from a Roman site was evidently made by soldering together the ends of a bent strip of iron with some sort of copper alloy. Cast iron, said Doctor Friend, was first known in Sussex in 1350 and soon became fairly common.

Vanishing Heath Hen Was Farmer's Friend

The New England heath hen is now in the last stages of extinction, the Louisville Courier-Journal reports. The farmer has found that he not only has lost a source of food for his table, but a protector of his crops.

Like the western prairie chicken, to which it is closely allied, the "Bob White" of the Central West, the heath hen is a great enemy of insect pests. But of the thousands that once inhabited field and woods patch, less than 100 are alive today, and these are found only on the island of Martha's Vineyard.

The Middle West lost a prolific food supply when the passenger pigeons died off. But the wild pigeon was otherwise of little economic value. It was largely a grain eater, though beech mast and weed seeds also formed its food.

The heath hen, however, is as valuable as the quail to farmers. Ornithologists and conservationists have pointed this out. Hence efforts are being made to save the bird from extinction and, if possible to bring it back to its former numbers.

Fishermen's Enemy

One cormorant will destroy two and one-half tons of fish in twelve months. These birds are a serious menace to fishing, especially on the south coast of England.

SCHOOL BOARD'S MANY BUILDING PROBLEMS

Schools in City Are Being Improved for Opening for the Fall Term

Work Includes Cement Work, Painting Job, and General Work Repair

Building matters occupied considerable time last evening at the meeting of the Brainerd Board of Education, the building committee submitting a report of the work done during the past month, the work in part being the advertising for bids for painting work, cement work, and the installation of steel ceilings in certain schools.

Bids for the painting were received from Dryberg and Bacon for $869.50 and F. H. McCaffrey for $940.00. The bid of Dryberg and Bacon was accepted. Each school will receive its share in the painting to be done.

The installation of steel ceilings will include the hallways of the Whittier school, one room in the Lowell school, and three at the Washington building. The bid of Vernon White for $700 for this work was accepted. The other bid of $766 was tendered by J. P. Eggerling.

The bid of Thompson Brothers and Clausen of $175 for cement work to be done in the basement of the Whittier building was accepted by the board. The other bid of $181.60 was tendered by Charles Peterson.

The building committee were directed to advertise for bids for the resingling with composition shingles and placing new tin decking gutters, etc., on the roofs of the Lincoln building and the west half of old part of the Lowell building. Bids will be opened by the board at a special session on August 19.

The committee reported on general repairing having been done at the Harrison school and gutter work repaired on the south half of the Washington building.

The committee further reported that in the matter of purchase of playground equipment for the Lincoln school, the specified equipment would amount to more than the $200 allotted. A short while ago the Lincoln Parent Teachers Association donated $100 towards playground equipment with the provision that the school board donate the same amount. The equipment which the L. P. T. A. asked for was two sets of swings of nine swings to a set. The committee was instructed to purchase one set of swings and to advise the Lincoln P. T. A. of their action.

A communication was received from Secretary Al Dillan of the Y. M. C. A. asking for permission of the Washington school building to hold a banquet and a lecture during the Older Boys Conference to be held in Brainerd on November 12, 13, and 14. The board granted the use of the gymnasium and the assembly room.

The board refused permission to an outside dramatic organization to put on their show on the property belonging to the school district. The board does not begrudge the use of the grounds to local benefit shows but they are not anxious to make a commercial proposition out of it.

J. L. Thompson, of the Travellers Insurance Co. advised new chemicals to be used in the water boilers in the different schools. The matter is under consideration.

A communication was received from the Oliver Machinery Co. of Minneapolis advertising their rip saw machinery for manual training departments. The matter was referred to the industrial committee which consists of M. E. Morrison and R. W. Crust.

The janitors at the different schools were reappointed, their contracts to run from month to month. The following are the janitors of the different schools: Washington, Martin Swanson with Andrew Gile, assistant; Lincoln, Frank Peters, Whittier, John R. Webster; Lowell, Erick Erickson; Harrison, John P. Johnson; Riverside, John Bushway, Garfield, A. J. Johnson.

The teachers committee were authorized to employ an additional teacher at large for the Lowell and Whittier schools.

The fuel committee were directed to advertise for bids for 400 tons of screened splint coal as much of this amount as can be stored to be taken at once, the balance to be subject to call of the board at any time prior to April 1, 1927. Bids for the coal will be opened at the special meeting on August 19.

The matter of letting the contract for the weather stripping and calking of the Lowell, Harrison, Lincoln and Riverside schools was deferred till the special meeting on August 19. The board failed to arrive to any conclusion on this matter. Bids were received from the Chamberlain people of Minneapolis through their local agent Charles Hoffman and from Henry Caron, of Brainerd who is handling the Ceco Weather stripping.

All members were present with the exception of K. S. Bredenberg, G. B. Falconer, Fred Drexler.

AUTO CARNIVAL DATE

The Girl Scouts auto carnival, scheduled to be held at Camp Clearwater on Thursday night, has been postponed until Friday night of this week on account of the laying of the corner stone of the Elks building in Brainerd on Thursday evening. The carnival will take the form of a picnic. The picnickers will gather at 5 P. M.

GARLAND FREIGHTER POUNDING ON ROCKS

San Francisco, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The Garland freighter Norlana with 46 men aboard is pounding against the rocks off Horseshoe Point 100 miles north of the Golden Gate and is reported in a critical condition.

Aground since 2 o'clock this morning, the Norlana's hold is taking water rapidly and may sink in rough seas, Captain N. O. Soderlum radioed.

The dense fog which caused the vessel to go aground continued to hang over the sea at a late hour today, hampering attempts of rescuing boats to reach the vessel's side.

AIM TO STOP FLOW OF POISON LIQUOR FROM U. S.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Government authorities have announced a reorganization of Canada's customs department in order to prevent the flow of poison liquor from the United States into Canada.

The Canadian customs department will be reorganized along the Niagara front and St. Lawrence river. Arrangements will be made to inform United States authorities of smuggling.

EXPECTS SENSATION IN EXPOSITION OF JUVENILE VICE

Denver, Colo., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Inquiry into an alleged vice ring involving, according to Acting District Attorney J. P. O'Connor, a number of high school boys, university students and Denver men, was begun here today following arrest of four men.

Those arrested are Richard Begthol, photographer; Dr. Ralph Kontz, dentist; W. W. Wilson, hotel clerk; and Leslie Mercer.

The vice ring was held for investigation. O'Connor said he expected to expose a juvenile vice ring of a sensational nature and added other arrests would follow.

ASTOUNDING CONFESSION MAY BE TRUTHFUL

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 4.—(UP)—That the astounding confession of Thomas Johnson, 54, "man of many crimes," may be true, was the belief of police here today, who assert that Johnson is "undoubtedly insane."

Two Minneapolis detectives are here investigating Johnson's story that he shot and killed Leonard Erdale, Minneapolis attorney, during a robbery.

Johnson told authorities he committed 14 murders and countless holdups in the middle west in the last 20 years.

H. A. Fowler, former railroad fireman, said he remembered that an unidentified man had been thrown to death from his train near Appleton, Wis., last spring. This checks with Johnson's admission of having thrown an I. W. W. from a train near Appleton last year.

Filipinos Hold Firmly to Belief in Witches

Witchery still continues as a source of trouble in the Philippines and hardly a week passes that the constabulary does not investigate the beating or killing of some person suspected of being a witch.

The Filipino witch, as Charles F. Freeman in the New York Tribune explains, is thought to possess the power to take on the shape of a beast at will and to work evil at a long distance. According to the strength of his magic he can cause a selected victim to become seriously ill or to die, and a credulous native, suffering from some malady which he does not understand, believes he has been bewitched.

Sometimes a witch doctor, exasperated by bad luck, will designate a man or woman as being the guilty "man-kukulan," and the innocent suspect falls a victim to mob violence.

W. H. Triplett

Little Visits Around the Rural Section

Written especially for the Dispatch by W. H. Triplett, travelling editor for this paper and The Farmer of St. Paul.

Tuesday morning I went to work without a coat and before very long I began to wish I had one. Evidently some surrounding country had rain.

When travelling through the country from farm to farm one cannot help but see the way corn has stretched up the last few weeks. In going across the field where C. F. Peterson was cutting hay, I noticed his field of six acres which has about the best stand of corn I have seen on the route. Mr. Peterson remarked that he believed a large percent of the poor corn in the county was due to poor seed. He says that too many farmers depend on getting their seed corn out of the crib and one can not expect to get good seed by following such practice. Every farmer should make it a point to select his seed early in the fall before frost and after selecting, store it in a cool dry place, thus always assuring a good quality of seed. Mr. Peterson came here from Iowa in 1908 and now has a well improved farm of 160 acres. Every type of machine may be found on his place including a threshing machine. He finished harvesting yesterday and within a few weeks he will be tuning up the threshing rig.

Five years ago Frank Every moved from Winona county to Crow Wing where opportunities were greater and has farmed 135 acres since that time. He is milking six cows of mixed breed.

I did not get to see Delbert Busby, but from the appearance of the place and progress he has made the past three years, he will be very successful in the farming enterprise. Mr. Busby cleared and broke 12 acres this spring and has the best field of clover I have seen on any route.

Art Gage has farmed 80 acres for the last 22 years and is getting along first rate. He, too, has 12 acres of corn that would be hard to beat in the county. From 10-12 acres of clover are seeded annually which is used for hay and to build up the soil. A tractor is used for shredding corn and grinding feed and for the many other jobs on the farm where such power can be used so advantageously.

M. Lockwood also formerly lived in Winona county, coming to this section of the country three years ago and making dairying and poultry raising his major enterprises. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood have had considerable sickness this spring and summer which has put them somewhat behind with their work. Mr. Lockwood's son, C. Lockwood has farmed in Crow Wing county for the last nine years, having 200 acres 80 of which are under cultivation; nine cows of mixed breed are milked.

There is an old saying that 13 is an unlucky number; evidently it is for Jess Britton has had more than his share of hard luck. This spring his house burned to the ground, not a stitch of clothing or a piece of furniture being saved. A few weeks ago one of his best dairy cows turned up her toes. We all hope this luck has changed for the better. He has farmed 160 acres for 13 years, having two silos to supply him with succulent feed for his dairy cows. A Red Poll sire is at the head of his herd of 12 milch cows. I wish to call attention again to those farmers having purebred sires to start getting them ready for the county fair.

A county fair should be a general roundup of economic and social life of the county. A fair could be made more of an educational agency than it is now by providing for programs dealing with public topics for the evening, consisting of music and educational lectures, movies, etc. A county fair or any fair cannot be successful without the cooperation of the farmers in the community.

W. H. TRIPLETT.

China's Many Rulers

The early condition of China was tribal, which before Christ merged into a vast feudal system nominally ruled by many contemporaneous dynasties, dated from 2205 B. C. The king of Tsin put down all other rulers and assumed the title of Hwang Ti or emperor. The principal dynasties from this period are Han, 206 B. C. to 220 A. D.; Tang, 618 to 906; Sung, 960 to 1279; Yuan the Mongol, 1280 to 1367; the Ming, 1368 to 1643; the Ch'ing or Tsin Mancho Tartar, 1643 to fall of the empire and date of republic.

Monarch of Small Realm

Another king has died and his passing was scarcely noted. He was Love Pritchard, eighty-four years old, reigning monarch of Bardsey Island, southwest of Carnarvonshire, since 1911, when he succeeded John II, who abdicated. At one time the inhabitants of Bardsey Island numbered 100, but they gradually dwindled to 40 and last year King Pritchard and his subjects abandoned the island and moved to the mainland.

Early Peoples Knew of Possibilities of Iron

The peoples of the Near East were among the earliest manufacturers of iron, according to Dr. J. Newton Friend in an address before the members of the Royal Institution, London. In 1800 B. C. the Hittites were using iron weapons in their numerous wars, and among the treasures of early history preserved to posterity is a letter thought to have been addressed to Rameses II of Egypt from the Hittite king, saying that he is sending with the communication an iron dagger.

The Romans were skilled metallurgists with considerable knowledge of how to handle iron ores. Virgil's Aeneid, written around 40 B. C., contains an account of a smithy in full blast, and Pliny in his "Natural History," which was brought out in 77 A. D., shows an equal familiarity with the working of the metal. An iron ring recently unearthed from a Roman site was evidently made by soldering together the ends of a bent strip of iron with some sort of copper alloy.

Cast iron, said Doctor Friend, was first known in Sussex in 1350 and soon became fairly common.

Vanishing Heath Hen

Was Farmer's Friend

The New England heath hen is now in the last stages of extinction, the Louisville Courier-Journal reports. The farmer has found that he not only has lost a source of food for his table, but a protector of his crops.

Like the western prairie chicken, to which it is closely allied, and the "Bob White" of the Central West, the heath hen is a great enemy of insect pests. But of the thousands that once inhabited field and woods patch, less than 100 are alive today, and these are found only on the island of Martha's Vineyard.

The Middle West lost a prolific food supply when the passenger pigeons died off. But the wild pigeon was otherwise of little economic value. It was largely a grain eater, though beech mast and weed seeds also formed its food.

The heath hen, however, is as valuable as the quail to farmers. Ornithologists and conservationists have pointed this out. Hence efforts are being made to save the bird from extinction and, if possible to bring it back to its former numbers.

Fishermen's Enemy

One cormorant will destroy two and one-half tons of fish in twelve months. These birds are a serious menace to fishing, especially on the south coast of England.

JOE BUSH SHINING AGAIN

THERE are always pessimists in every community and the few we have in town groaned when Joseph Leslie Bush left the camp of the Washington Senators.

"That's the end of Joe," they proclaimed as they shed a few crocodile tears. But these hypocritical tears have been wasted. Joe joined the Pirate ranks in the National League. Yesterday he pitched a whopper of a game and showed that in all departments, pitching, hitting, fielding, base running and using his head, Joe was there with both feet.

Here's what he did to the Philadelphia team, and the nine comes from the town where he has his home. Bush has a splendid home in an exclusive section of the City of Brotherly Love.

The Pittsburgh Pirates slaughtered the Phillies 14 to 2, and earned an even break in the four-game series. The champions included eight two-baggers, and three home runs in their total of 22 hits. Bush was touched for only five hits by Philadelphia.

In five times at bat, Bush scored two hits, and one of these was a home run. He had one put out and two assists. He struck out three men and gave one pass. No errors or wild pitches were chalked up against him.

Yes, it was a great day for Joe Leslie Bush. It showed that hot weather is the time when Joe's arm works best, a point always stressed by THE BRAINERD DISPATCH. We salute Mr. Bush and hope he turns in many more games like this for the Pirates. The old home town is watching you, Joe Bush, and banking on your playing in the world's series against the competing Yankees.

WHEN HUSBANDS GROW LONESOME

MEN whose wives are on vacation are not generally given to kicking over the traces. Most of them merely talk about it, contends Thyra Samter Winslow, noted writer, in an article in this week's Liberty magazine.

"Speaking of getting away from the wife!" she writes. "How many men I've heard utter that sentence! I'll admit right here, though, for the sake of those poor wives who may still retain some of the tenderness and extreme jealousy of the first six months of marriage, that all most husbands do is to speak of getting away from their wives. They don't really do anything. I know * * * There's nothing that a married man likes better than to be thought of as—well, slightly a devil of a fellow."

We have noticed many a married man while on a convention trip and away from the missus. After a certain time they get to feel lonely and what do they talk about when they meet the engaging waitress? It's about the wife and the kids. If they have any photographs, they will be busy showing them to their friends and bragging about the family.

It carries truth to the adage that married people, if they wish real vacations, should take them individually and not together. At the end of a week each will crave the companionship of the other and they will actually be glad to see each other. When two go on a vacation it's either a shopping tour for one side of the house or a feasting on the other side.

ELKS CORNERSTONE LAYING

WITH simple ceremonies, Brainerd Elks lodge will lay the cornerstone of the new Elks home now rapidly assuming shape at the corner of South Sixth and Laurel streets. The ceremonies are eloquent in their very simplicity and informality.

The building speaks for itself. The foundation, like all real Elks proceedings and great undertakings, is built to withstand the ravages of time. The contractor pursued the wily streak of poor ground to a firm footing of clay and then built his 16 big piers on that firm stratum.

And one can draw a picture from this proceeding. Many a great undertaking, if not resting on a secure foundation which the ordinary street level observer cannot see, may not survive the vagaries of time.

But the Elks fraternal order, like the homes its members build, rests on the broad and enduring foundations of charity, justice and brotherly love.

The exercises will be held out-of-doors and will start at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening.

HITCH ON, PULL AND PUSH

THE Wells County Farmer of Fessenden, N. D., brings out some real points in an editorial on cooperation.

Did you ever hear of a farmer buying a binder, and then finding fault with the dealer because it didn't go out and cut his wheat? No. He hitches on to his binder and guides and directs it—and the job is done.

It is just so with your cooperative organization. It will serve you just so far as you hitch on to it and give it the benefit of your thought and cooperation. The amount of personal interest that the farmer gives to the cooperative organization to which he belongs will be the measure of the benefits which the organization will render to agriculture.

WHENEVER we see a man who has important business affairs of his own generously allotting a part of his time to some public enterprise, we are reminded of a pithy observation by Herbert Spencer to the effect that "the man who spends his energies on private affairs and refuses to take part in public affairs, complimenting himself on his wisdom in minding his own business, is blind to the fact that his own business is possible only by the prosperity of all," says "The Rotarian" in its August issue.

SUCH is life. When a man is seized on suspicion and tells the authorities he has committed no crime, few believe him. Then again, when one Tom Smith, alias Tom Kelly, goes to the Seattle police and confesses slaying 14 people, and committing 100 highway robberies, the western police are given another shock and have their doubts about the whole story.

THE Scottish highlanders, and not the American flappers, were the first to expose their knees. Still, the Scottish masculine knee has little beauty and few dimples.

BRAINERD was visited the other day by Attorney Volstead, father of the dry law. He was traveling by automobile and was on his way north.

"SOME WILD NOTIONS I HAVE KNOWN"

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

"ALL MEN ARE LIARS"

But David admitted that he had said it hastily. Most men are honest but misunderstood. So few of us take time to walk out of our skin into the other man's skin in order to get his viewpoint. It is always so much easier to pass a harsh judgment.

You can call a man a liar or a hypocrite in a fraction of a second, whereas it sometimes takes months to get his viewpoint.

Many men seem to be lying when they are only reporting the facts as they see them. Three blind men looked at the elephant. One felt of the beast's trunk and said the elephant was very much like a rope. Another felt of the great leg and declared that the elephant resembled a tree. The third rubbed his hand over the broad expanse of side and said the elephant was very much like a house.

Each was right so far as his observation extended, but he had only a partial "viewpoint."

If the man in the shop could see the business from the angle of the office desk and the manager see the shop from the angle of the man who carries the dinner pail, most of our labor troubles would cease.

We call men hard names because we do not know them. Hot words never result in cool judgments and harsh judgments never bring about smooth relations.

Most lies are born of inadequate information, insufficient evidence, inability to express oneself accurately, faulty hearing or misunderstandings.

The Christian attitude is an uncompromising attitude toward the lie and a charitable attitude toward the liar.

To say that all men are liars is to condemn oneself or be guilty of arrogant egotism, by claiming exemption from the generalization.

By Inches

When Bobbie was six, he was given a real watch, which, regardless of quality or accuracy, had a loud tick.

Naturally the little fellow was very proud, and he would stroll up and down the street, stopping every moment or two to draw the timepiece from his pocket and regard it gravely.

Every passer-by smiled at Bobby's performance, but the climax came when his little cousin, Betty, tripped along and asked him the time.

Bobby regarded his watch perplexedly for a moment, and then replied with dignity, "Two inches to four!"

Historic Timekeeper

Four hundred years ago a church clock was made at Vantage (the birthplace of King Alfred the Great), in England, and placed in the church tower of East Hendred. It played every three hours the "Angel's Hymn," and went on ticking out the time for 400 years, thus placing all grandfather's clocks in the shade. East Hendred's timepiece had recently to be stopped for repairs. When these have been satisfactorily completed it is not anticipated that the church clock will need further expert attention until the year 2320.

Conquering Limitations

JOHN MERCEREAU'S stage coach lumbered its creaking way from New York to Philadelphia in a day and a half, in 1771, and was considered so fast that it was called "The Flying Machine." When steam came into use, there were the "Comet," the "Thunderbolt" and similar names, suggesting the attainment of the age-old need—speedy messengers.

Man's effort to overcome the limitations of time and distance finally put electricity to work, and it became his swiftest message bearer.

Half a century ago Bell invented the telephone. It is more than a messenger, for it has been developed to carry man's spoken words for great distances with the swiftness of light. Through its wizardry space is conquered with the speed of thought itself.

HILL ESTATE SUES
FOR TAX RETURN

CLAIMS OVER $3,000,000 ILLEGALLY COLLECTED BY GOVERNMENT

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—(UP)—George P. Flannery, administrator for the estate of Mary T. Hill, deceased widow of J. J. Hill, railroad builder, late Tuesday filed suit in United States district court for return of $3,141,677.04 plus interest paid the government in tax.

The suit was brought against Levi M. Willcuts, collector of internal revenue for the Minnesota district. It alleges the money was collected illegally by the government and part of $1,130,616.08 in taxes were charged to have been paid by the estate under duress to avoid paying additional penalties and costs.

If the suit is successful it will have a far reaching effect, attorneys believe, as in that event all inheritance taxes collected during the year in question would be declared invalid, and many suits probably would be brought for return of hundreds of millions of dollars paid the government.

JOE BUSH SHINING AGAIN

THERE are always pessimists in every community and the few we have in town groaned when Joseph Leslie Bullet Bush left the camp of the Washington Senators.

"That's the end of Joe," they proclaimed as they shed a few crocodile tears. But these hypocritical tears have been wasted.

Joe joined the Pirate ranks in the National League. Yesterday he pitched a whopper of a game and showed that in all departments, pitching, hitting, fielding, base running and using his head, Joe was there with both feet.

Here's what he did to the Philadelphia team, and the nine comes from the town where he has his home. Bush has a splendid home in an exclusive section of the City of Brotherly Love.

The Pittsburgh Pirates slaughtered the Phillies 14 to 2, and earned an even break in the four-game series. The champions included eight two-baggers, and three home runs in their total of 22 hits. Bush was touched for only five hits by Philadelphia.

In five times at bat, Bush scored two hits, and one of these was a home run. He had one put out and two assists. He struck out three men and gave one pass. No errors or wild pitches were chalked up against him.

Yes, it was a great day for Joe Bullet Leslie Bush. It showed that hot weather is the time when Joe's arm works best, a point always stressed by THE BRAINERD DISPATCH. We salute Mr. Bush and hope he turns in many more games like this for the Pirates. The old home town is watching you, Joe Bullet, and banking on your playing in the world's series against the competing Yankees.

WHEN HUSBANDS GROW LONESOME

MEN whose wives are on vacation are not generally given to kicking over the traces. Most of them merely talk about it, contends Thyra Samter Winslow, noted writer, in an article in this week's Liberty magazine.

"Speaking of getting away from the wife!" she writes. "How many men I've heard utter that sentence! I'll admit right here, though, for the sake of those poor wives who may still retain some of the tenderness and extreme jealousy of the first six months of marriage, that all most husbands do is to speak of getting away from their wives. They don't really do anything. I know * * * There's nothing that a married man likes better than to be thought of as—well, slightly a devil of a fellow."

We have noticed many a married man while on a convention trip and away from the missus. After a certain time they get to feel lonely and what do they talk about when they meet the engaging waitress? It's about the wife and the kids. If they have any photographs, they will be busy showing them to their friends and bragging about the family.

It carries truth to the adage that married people, if they wish real vacations, should take them individually and not together. At the end of a week each will crave the companionship of the other and they will actually be glad to see each other. When two go on a vacation it's either a shopping tour for one side of the house or a feasting on the other side.

ELKS CORNERSTONE LAYING

WITH simple ceremonies, Brainerd Elks lodge will lay the cornerstone of the new Elks home now rapidly assuming shape at the corner of South Sixth and Laurel streets. The ceremonies are eloquent in their very simplicity and informality.

The building speaks for itself. The foundation, like all real Elks proceedings and great undertakings, is built to withstand the ravages of time. The contractor pursued the wily streak of poor ground to a firm footing of clay and then built his 16 big piers on that firm stratum.

And one can draw a picture from this proceeding. Many a great undertaking, if not resting on a secure foundation which the ordinary street level observer cannot see, may not survive the vagaries of time.

But the Elks fraternal order, like the homes its members build, rests on the broad and enduring foundations of charity, justice and brotherly love.

The exercises will be held out-of-doors and will start at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening.

HITCH ON, PULL AND PUSH

THE Wells County Farmer of Fessenden, N. D., brings out some real points in an editorial on cooperation.

Did you ever hear of a farmer buying a binder, and then finding fault with the dealer because it didn't go out and cut his wheat? No. He hitches on to his binder and guides and directs it—and the job is done.

It is just so with your cooperative organization. It will serve you just so far as you hitch on to it and give it the benefit of your thought and cooperation. The amount of personal interest that the farmer gives to the cooperative organization to which he belongs will be the measure of the benefits which the organization will render to agriculture.

WHENEVER we see a man who has important business affairs of his own generously allotting a part of his time to some public enterprise, we are reminded of a pithy observation by Herbert Spencer to the effect that "the man who spends his energies on private affairs and refuses to take part in public affairs, complimenting himself on his wisdom in minding his own business, is blind to the fact that his own business is possible only by the prosperity of all," says "The Rotarian" in its August issue.

SUCH is life. When a man is seized on suspicion and tells the authorities he has committed no crime, few believe him. Then again, when one Tom Smith, alias Tom Kelly, goes to the Seattle police and confesses slaying 14 people, and committing 100 highway robberies, the western police are given another shock and have their doubts about the whole story.

THE Scottish highlanders, and not the American flappers, were the first to expose their knees. Still, the Scottish masculine knee has little beauty and few dimples.

BRAINERD was visited the other day by Attorney Volstead, father of the dry law. He was traveling by automobile and was on his way north.

"SOME WILD NOTIONS I HAVE KNOWN"

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

"ALL MEN ARE LIARS"

But David admitted that he had said it hastily. Most men are honest but misunderstood. So few of us take time to walk out of our skin into the other man's skin in order to get his viewpoint. It is always so much easier to pass a harsh judgment.

You can call a man a liar or a hypocrite in a fraction of a second, whereas it sometimes takes months to get his viewpoint.

Many men seem to be lying when they are only reporting the facts as they see them. Three blind men looked at the elephant. One felt of the beast's trunk and said the elephant was very much like a rope. Another felt of the great leg and declared that the elephant resembled a tree. The third rubbed his hand over the broad expanse of side and said the elephant was very much like a house.

Each was right so far as his observation extended, but he had only a partial "viewpoint."

If the man in the shop could see the business from the angle of the office desk and the manager see the shop from the angle of the man who carries the dinner pail, most of our labor troubles would cease.

We call men hard names because we do not know them. Hot words never result in cool judgments and harsh judgments never bring about smooth relations.

Most lies are born of inadequate information, insufficient evidence, inability to express oneself accurately, faulty hearing or misunderstandings.

The Christian attitude is an uncompromising attitude toward the lie and a charitable attitude toward the liar.

To say that all men are liars is to condemn oneself or be guilty of arrogant egotism, by claiming exemption from the generalization.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

August 3, 1901

The Misses Rose and Lillian Koop and their party of friends returned from "Koops Dream" this morning. The party was composed of the Misses Mabel and Lulu Kleis of Duluth, Miss Helen Murphy, and Messrs. John Hall, Michael Burtell and Wm. Pickler of Duluth and Ed. Koop of this city. The party has spent a most enjoyable week.

County Treasurer and Mrs. J. T. Frater leave this evening for Seattle, Wash., where they will visit for a time with a brother of Mr. Frater. Before returning they may also go on to Oregon to visit relatives.

Mrs. D. M. Gunn and Miss Cleveland who have been guests in the city of Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson returned yesterday to their home in Grand Rapids. Mrs. Gunn is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson.

Mrs. Dressen, Mrs. Krenz, and Mrs. Drysdale have returned from the lake.

The Misses Maude and Addie Harrison left this noon for Minneapolis for a short visit.

Wm. T. McClosky and bride returned yesterday from their wedding trip in Missouri.

Prof and Mrs. Torrens returned today from Wadena where the professor had charge of the summer school.

Miss Emma Jane Scribner came in this noon from Minneapolis and will be the guest of her father G. W. Scribner for some time.

C. M. Patek has returned from Milwaukee where he took in the National Whist Congress. He reports having had a very pleasant time.

Cashier and Mrs. George D. LaBar and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Atherton leave this evening for Gull Lake to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Webb.

By Inches

When Bobbie was six, he was given a real watch, which, regardless of quality or accuracy, had a loud tick.

Naturally the little fellow was very proud, and he would stroll up and down the street, stopping every moment or two to draw the timepiece from his pocket and regard it gravely.

Every passer-by smiled at Bobby's performance, but the climax came when his little cousin, Betty, tripped along and asked him the time.

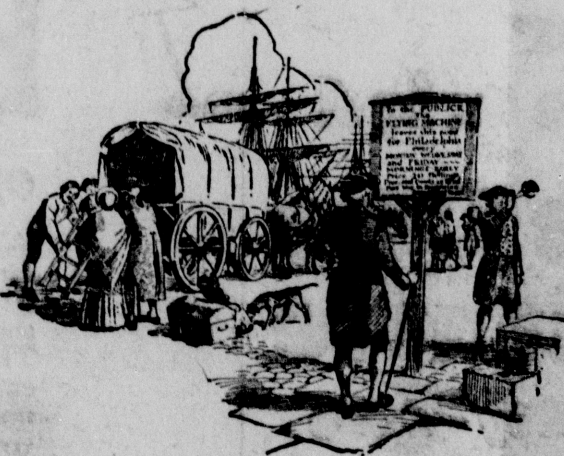

Bobby regarded his watch perplexedly for a moment, and then replied with dignity, "Two inches to four!"

Historic Timekeeper

Four hundred years ago a church clock was made at Vantage (the birthplace of King Alfred the Great), in England, and placed in the church tower of East Hendred. It played every three hours the "Angel's Hymn," and went on ticking out the time for 400 years, thus placing all grandfather's clocks in the shade. East Hendred's timepiece had recently to be stopped for repairs. When these have been satisfactorily completed it is not anticipated that the church clock will need further expert attention until the year 2326.

Drawing the Line

"I have every confidence in my wife," an Atchison man said, "but I am not going to give her lessons in pistol practice."—Atchison Globe.

Conquering Limitations

JOHN MERCEREAU'S stage coach lumbered its creaking way from New York to Philadelphia in a day and a half, in 1771, and was considered so fast that it was called "The Flying Machine." When steam came into use, there were the "Comet," the "Thunderbolt" and similar names, suggesting the attainment of the age-old need—speedy messengers.

Man's effort to overcome the limitations of time and distance finally put electricity to work, and it became his swiftest message bearer.

Half a century ago Bell invented the telephone. It is more than a messenger, for it has been developed to carry man's spoken words for great distances with the swiftness of light. Through its wizardry space is conquered with the speed of thought itself.

HILL ESTATE SUES FOR TAX RETURN

CLAIMS OVER $3,000,000 ILLEGALLY COLLECTED BY GOVERNMENT

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—(UP)—George P. Flannery, administrator for the estate of Mary T. Hill, deceased widow of J. J. Hill, railroad builder, late Tuesday filed suit in United States district court for return of

$3,141,677.04 plus interest paid the government in tax.

The suit was brought against Levi M. Willcuts, collector of internal revenue for the Minnesota district. It alleges the money was collected illegally by the government and part of $1,120,616.08 in taxes were charged to have been paid by the estate under duress to avoid paying additional penalties and costs.

If the suit is successful it will have a far reaching effect, attorneys believe, as in that event all inheritance taxes collected during the year in question would be declared invalid, and many suits probably would be brought for return of hundreds of millions of dollars paid the government.

COUNTY FAIR PROMISES TO BE VERY ATTRACTIVE

To be Held at Pequot on August 30, 31 and September 1; Large Entry Expected

PREMIUM LISTS READY

18 Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra Members to Feature Musical Part of Program

Crow Wing county will make a very favorable showing at their fair this fall to be held at Pequot on August 30, 31, and September 1, judging by the inquiries for premium lists being received by the fair secretary.

An unusual thorough distribution of Crow Wing County Fair list is to be made, and 3,000 copies are being printed which is twice as many as during previous years.

Symphony Orchestra Players

Entertainment features of the fair at Pequot will be of outstanding order. Minneapolis Symphony orchestra players are arranging a program, and it is expected that 18 members of this famous organization, including several soloists, will appear on the platform. These musicians have their summer home at Mayo Lake, two miles from Pequot, and they are taking a great personal interest in the county fair. They are donating their services, and planning a special concert that would cost the fair management hundreds of dollars if it should be paid for. Many patrons of the orchestra in the Twin Cities are planning upon driving up for the concert.

The fair at Pine River will be held on August 26, 27, 28 while the one at Motley will be held on September 2, 3, 4, and at Pillager on September 6, 7, 8.

Oratorical Flight

In the opinion of the Detroit Free Press, the palm for attainment of oratorical attitudes should be awarded Representative C. L. Abernethy of North Carolina, in the house of representatives. During the recent session, he said:

"If all the chewing tobacco manufactured in one year in North Carolina were made into one big succulent plug, and a man standing on top of Mount Mitchell bit a chew from its thick corner, his voracious chin would drop so far that it would break the back of a somnolent shark at the profoundest bottom of the Gulf of Mexico, while his anticipative mustache, standing out like the quills of a fretful porcupine, would make the silk-clad ankles of the flappers of New Jersey's northmost verandas shrinkingly suspect the sting and bite of a new and unconquerable mosquito."

The Main Thing

Harold Hartney, vice president of the General Airways system, which offers to train the government's airmen for $5,000,000 a year, said at a luncheon in New York:

"A Commercial flying school would be rather a novelty—like the matrimonial school, you know."

"A canvasser called at a home that boasted six grown-up daughters and said to the lady of the house:

"I represent a new school that has just opened in Temperance hall, madam—a school to teach young ladies to be good wives. Would you care to enroll your daughters?"

"Er—" said the lady, "do you—er—guarantee situations afterwards?"

Truly a Family Affair

Published by W. E. LeHuquet, his wife and their nine children, the Lake Washington Reflector of Bellevue, near Seattle, is a real family journal. Under the direction of Sylvia, age fourteen, who is foreman and assistant manager, seven of the children set type and print the trimmings issues. Gloria, age thirteen, is the champion typesetter, boasting four "sticks full" in an hour. Janice, age five, printer's devil, folds the sheets on press day and can already set her name in capital letters. Mrs. LeHuquet collects and writes the news, while her husband writes the editorials and manages the business department.

Welding Theory Changing

As a result of experimental work with atoms of hydrogen the theory of welding may be revolutionized. The idea behind the experiments is to pass the hydrogen atoms through an electric arc which produces a flame vastly hotter than the acetylene torch, heretofore principally used for welding. By getting this heat welding of ordinary materials will be possible, it is said, that will make the welded portions as strong as one original piece. If the experiments are developed commercially it may mean the passing of riveting to a large extent.

How It Happened

"How does it come that Yvonne is so happy in her marriage?" asked Blondie of the rapid-fire restaurant. "Before she wedded she said her husband must be tall, handsome, eloquent, strong, healthy and brainy," replied Heloise, the head waitress. "By-and-by she married a fellow about as big and smart as a mushroom, and is so delighted with him that whatever he does is wonderful."—Kansas City Star.

Devil Is Good Fighter

He who will fight the devil at his own weapon must not wonder if he finds him an overmatch.—South.

Copyright, 1926, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. "Don Juan," screen play by Bess Meredith, starring John Barrymore, is a Warner Bros. picture of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

"The greatest lover in the world" men called Don Juan, a woman, admiringly; none knowing that his cruelty to women, his lack of faith in them, went back on wings of secret memory to the day when as a child he had seen his father, good Don Jose, trap his beautiful wife, Juan's mother, with her lover, Leandro; whom Don Jose had killed forthright, then banished the faithless wife and mother. Staid heretofore, Don Jose now passed from one orgy to another, schooling his son to cynicism and flouting all love until laid low by a jealous woman's dagger.

CHAPTER I—Continued

"I know—I know—" Juan had cried at that point in the tale. He himself, realizing what had taken place, had drawn his short sword and leaped to his feet. But his father, still smiling mockingly, had waved him aside, as well as the armed men who had hurried to him.

"Let her go unharmed," he had said calmly. "She interests me for the first time."

"This is my legacy to you," he had said. "Destroy women or they will destroy you. Go out into the world. Take their love when it pleases you. Take it scornfully—and forget."

Strange advice to give a boy of fifteen. Strange enough to make him the famous Don Juan, whom all men envied and all women adored, the greatest lover of all time.

CHAPTER 2

Love—and murder; luxury—and equal; beauty and ugliness and cruelty and kindness, all contrasts could be found in Rome in the time of the Borgias, save only contrast for adventure. There was no monotony in the city overlooked by the mighty Vatican.

Lucretia Borgia and her brother Cesare held Rome, and, indeed, much of Italy in their hands. Blond, suave, crueler than anyone else but her saturnine brother, Lucretia played with the lives of men and the fortunes of her country. She hesitated over having a man—or woman—killed by poison only when it seemed that the knife might be more advisable. She had but one weakness, the one through which Don Juan conquered her.

The Borgias rode through Rome, one day in early spring. Their crest was embrodered on the trappings of their horses and those of their retainers. Lucretia's blond hair was held by a net of golden threads in which pearls were woven, and pearls and emeralds were caught in the embroderies of her dress. Behind her rode the falconer, her snow-white falcon on his wrist. Mala, her lady-in-waiting, also rode behind, and Count Giano Donati, her cousin. There was a Cardinal in the train, and there were gallant men and beautiful women; Lucretia had never yet had to fear the beauty of anyone else.

Sunshine glanced from the weapons of the men, and made the women's jewels sparkle, and slipped to the people who thronged the streets cheering the Borgias. One or two knelt, many threw flowers. It was well that the Borgias, if you wished to live, they had enemies, but even the faction led by the great Orsini family was less powerful than they.

Cesare Borgia and his sister received the crowd's applause with set smiles; Donati's lips curled in a sneer. He was thinking that few men in the cheering throng would hesitate to knife either of the Borgias if the opportunity offered, that many of the women would gladly give Cesare and his sister poison, as the Borgias had caused it to be given to many. That great emerald ring on Lucretia's lovely hand; was it one of those with a setting so devised that it concealed a deadly poison? Probably. More than one enemy of Lucretia's had taken a glass of circumstance prove too much for her, turned to him amusedly. "Cousin, your little fancies must be gratified," she told him. "Shall we include the duke and his daughter among our guests tonight?"

Donati accepted that suggestion eagerly, and Cesare glanced at her with genuine admiration; he knew that she had thought further and more quickly than he had, that beneath her words there was some deep laid plot, like a snake curled beneath a heap of pale green leaves.

The three rode for a moment without speaking. Then a sudden burst of laughter caught their attention. Mala, the Cardinal, the ladies-in-waiting, were staring at a house which they were approaching, looking at one of the upper windows, and laughing uproariously. Mala indicated the window to Lucretia, who, following the maid's pointing finger up the great stone pile, in her turn stared and laughed.

Priceless, embrodered silk and tapestries hung from the eaves of many of the windows, from this one as from the others, trailing their colorful length down the grim stone of the house front. On the sill's very edge sat a monkey, holding a bit of frothy lingerie; to the minds of such men and women as those in the train of the Borgias, that lingerie told volumes about its owner. The monkey prepared to clamber down the tapestry, and had already started on his way when a woman's bare arm and shoulder were seen in the window, as the owner of the lingerie tried desperately to rescue it.

All the retinue had stopped, crowded together in the narrow street; their laughter and the clatter of the horses' hoofs made the situation all too clear to the woman hidden above, obviously, for she made one last frantic effort, risking giving them a glimpse of her face, and dragged the monkey and his prize back into the room.

Lucretia, highly amused, turned to her maid, and asking "Who dwells there—do you know?"

Mala, still laughing, answered promptly.

"It is the home of Don Juan, my lady."

FEDERAL PROBE OF THE MURDER OF DON R. MELLETT

THEORY HE WAS SLAIN TO PROTECT INTERCITY LIQUOR RING OPERATING

BELIEVED SAME WAS DOING BUSINESS BETWEEN CHICAGO AND PITTSBURGH

Canton, O., Aug. 4.—(UP)—A federal investigation of the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher, on the theory that he was slain to protect an Intercity Liquor ring operating between Chicago and Pittsburgh.

An appeal has been made by Canton authorities for assignment of department of justice agents to work under cover on various phases of the crime, it was learned as investigators became convinced that present suspects are not the actual murderers.

Patrick McDermott, whose suspicious movements before and after the assassination 19 days ago, led to a nation wide search, is not one of the slayers and was probably hired to divert attention from the real perpetrators of the crime, according to authorities working on the case.

Ora Slater, chief of the investigators, believes that McDermott knows who the plotters were and will reveal them when captured. He expects the arrest within 48 hours.

Alpena, Mich., Aug. 4.—A man said to resemble Pat McDermott, sought in connection with the murder of Don R. Mellett, murdered Canton, Ohio, publisher, passed through here late Tuesday bound north in a battered automobile, according to a report to police today by Mrs. John Spicer, a rural resident. She said she recognized McDermott from a picture in a newspaper.

"Was any part of the money you furnished put up by the companies in which you were interested?" Chairman Reed asked.

"Not directly. I made it out of the companies, but it was mine when I gave it."

"Did any company reimburse you?"

"No, at the time I gave my last contribution I had sold out my interests in the companies."

A. E. Fitkin and E. H. Rollins & Sons bought in Copley's stock although he still holds "a large interest in underlying stock."

Copley said he did not wish to tell how much was his "large interest" although he admitted it was "several million dollars."

Copley said he owned three newspapers, the Elgin News, the Aurora Beacon Journal and the Joliet News-Herald.

"Who did the newspapers support in the campaign?" asked Reed.

"I think they gave both men a square deal."

Copley was excused and Samuel Insull, another public utilities magnate, was called.

Insull outlined the contributions of $172,925 he made directly to Smith and George E. Brennan, democratic nominee, and declined to give others.

"You gave some money to the Crowe-Barrett group, did you not?" asked Reed.

"That goes into a question which I understand does not come within the powers of the committee," said Insull. "I have consulted my counsel and am advised by him that the committee lacks the power to inquire into what contributions were made to the pre-primary campaign which do not directly bear upon senatorial nominations. When members of the committee seek to go beyond their authority I do not feel called upon to answer."

"Then you make a direct challenge of the authority of the committee to determine where the money went and what it was spent for?" Reed asked.

"Is that a question or a statement?" Insull asked.

"It is as much question as your answer to my other question," said Reed. "However, if you do not care to answer it is all right with me."

SYNOPSIS

"The greatest lover in the world" men called Don Juan. He was a woman admirer; none knowing that his cruelty to women, his lack of faith in them, went back on wings of secret memory to the day when as a child he had seen his father, good Don Jose, trap his beautiful wife, Juan's mother, with her lover, Leandro; whom Don Jose had killed forthright, then banished the faithless wife and mother. Staid heretofore, Don Jose now passed from one ory to another, schooling his son to cynicism and haunting all love until laid low by a jealous woman's dagger.

wine from her hand and died before he could take another. The ring he doubt held death, concealed beneath beauty, just as Lucretia's exquisite face and beautiful body concealed a mind so cruel and unscrupulous that nothing could stand in its way.

Smiling at the thought, Donati glanced over the crowds in the streets, and up the long flight of steps leading to the entrance of a church, his attention attracted by the burst of music that came pouring forth as the heavy leather doors were swung outward. A group of young girls was coming out, chattering softly among themselves, herded together by a white-robed nun. Donati studied them with interest, appraisingly. To him all women but his cousin Lucretia were merely possible or impossible objects for love making.

His bold glance would have swept away, after travelling over the little group, had not one of the girls stepped aside, revealing another whom he had not noticed before, a girl whose beauty was so arresting that Donati drew a breath sharp as sudden pain. His eyes dwelt on her, left her for an instant, were compelled to return. As his horse moved on he turned in the saddle and looked back.

"Who is that girl?" he asked Cesare, indicating her with a jerk of his head.

Cesare thought for a moment, then smiled ironically. "The daughter of the Duke Della Varnese," he replied, adding, "A follower of our enemy, the Orsini."

Donati shrugged his shoulders, accepted the implication that for a cousin of the Borgias of course the girl was out of the question. Lucretia, moved by a sudden whim and by her hatred of letting any time of the Borgias, save only contrast for adventure. There was no monotony in the city overlooked by the mighty Vatican.

Lucretia Borgia and her brother Cesare held Rome, and, indeed, much of Italy in their hands. Blond, suave, crueler than anyone else but her saturnine brother, Lucretia played with the lives of men and the fortunes of her country. She hesitated over having a man—or woman—killed by poison only when it seemed that the knife might be more advisable. She had but one weakness, the one through which Don Juan conquered her.

The Borgias rode through Rome, one day in early spring. Their crest was embrodered on the trappings of their horses and those of their retainers. Lucretia's blond hair was held by a net of golden threads in which pearls were woven, and pearls and emeralds were caught in the embroderies of her dress. Behind her rode the falconer, her snow-white falcon on his wrist. Mala, her lady-in-waiting, also rode behind, and Count Giano Donati, her cousin. There was a Cardinal in the train, and there were galleys. They had enemies, but even the faction led by the great Orsini family was less powerful than they.

Sunshine glanced from the weapons of the men, and made the women's jewels sparkle, and slipped to the people who thronged the streets cheering the Borgias. One or two knelt, many threw flowers. It was well to cheer the Borgias, if you wished to live. They had enemies, but even the faction led by the great Orsini family was less powerful than they.

Cesare Borgia and his sister received the crowd's applause with set smiles; Donati's lips curled in a sneer. He was thinking that few men in the cheering throng would hesitate to knife either of the Borgias if the opportunity offered, that many of the women would gladly give Cesare and his sister poison, as the Borgias had caused it to be given to many. That great emerald ring on Lucretia's lovely hand; was it one of those with a setting so devised that it concealed a deadly poison? Probably. More than one enemy of Lucretia's had taken a glass of circumstance prove too much for her, turned to him amusedly.

"Cousin, your little fancies must be gratified," she told him. "Shall we include the duke and his daughter among our guests tonight?"

Donati accepted that suggestion eagerly, and Cesare glanced at her with genuine admiration; he knew that she had thought further and more quickly than he had, that beneath her words there was some deep laid plot, like a snake curled beneath a heap of pale green leaves.

The three rode for a moment without speaking. Then a sudden burst of laughter caught their attention. Mala, the Cardinal, the ladies-in-waiting, were staring at a house which they were approaching, looking at one of the upper windows, and laughing uproariously. Mala indicated the window to Lucretia, who, following the maid's pointing finger up the great stone pile, in her turn stared and laughed.

Priceless, embrodered silk and tapestries hung from the eaves of many of the windows, from this one as from the others, trailing their colorful length down the grim stone of the house front. On the sill's very edge sat a monkey, holding a bit of frothy lingerie; to the minds of such men and women as those in the train of the Borgias, that lingerie told volumes about its owner. The monkey prepared to clamber down the tapestry, and had already started on his way when a woman's bare arm and shoulder were seen in the window, as the owner of the lingerie tried desperately to rescue it.

All the retinue had stopped, crowded together in the narrow street; their laughter and the clatter of the horses' hoofs made the situation all too clear to the woman hidden above, obviously for she made one last frantic effort, risking giving them a glimpse of her face, and dragged the monkey and his prize back into the room. Lucretia, highly amused, turned to her maid, and asking "Who dwells there—do you know?"

Mala, still laughing, answered promptly. "It is the home of Don Juan, my lady." (To be continued)

FEDERAL PROBE OF THE MURDER OF DON R. MELLETT

THEORY HE WAS SLAIN TO PROTECT INTERCITY LIQUOR RING OPERATING

BELIEVED SAME WAS DOING BUSINESS BETWEEN CHICAGO AND PITTSBURGH

Canton, O., Aug. 4.—(UP)—A federal investigation of the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher, on the theory that he was slain to protect an intercity liquor ring operating between Chicago and Pittsburgh.

An appeal has been made by Canton authorities for assignment of department of justice agents to work under cover on various phases of the crime. It was learned as investigators became convinced that present suspects are not the actual murderers.

Patrick McDermott, whose suspicious movements before and after the assassination 19 days ago, led to a nation wide search, is not one of the slayers and was probably hired to divert attention from the real perpetrators of the crime, according to authorities working on the case.

Ora Slater, chief of the investigators, believes that McDermott knows who the plotters were and will reveal them when captured. He expects the arrest within 48 hours.

Alpena, Mich., Aug. 4.—A man said to resemble Pat McDermott, sought in connection with the murder of Don R. Mellett, murdered Canton, Ohio, publisher, passed through here late Tuesday bound north in a battered automobile, according to a report to police today by Mrs. John Spicer, a rural resident. She said she recognized McDermott from a picture in a newspaper.

"Was any part of the money you furnished put up by the companies in which you were interested?" Chairman Reed asked.

"Not directly. I made it out of the companies, but it was mine when I gave it."

"Did any company reimburse you?"

"No, at the time I gave my last contribution I had sold out my interests in the companies."

A. E. Fitkin and E. H. Rollins & Sons bought in Copley's stock although he still holds "a large interest in underlying stock."

Copley said he did not wish to tell how much was his "large interest" although he admitted it was "several million dollars."

Copley said he owned three newspapers, the Elgin News, the Aurora Beacon Journal and the Joliet News-Herald.

"Who did the newspapers support in the campaign?" asked Reed.

"I think they gave both men a square deal."

Copley was excused and Samuel Insull, another public utilities magnate, was called.

Insull outlined the contributions of $172,925 he made directly to Smith and George E. Brennan, democratic nominee, and declined to give others.

"You gave some money to the Crowe-Barrett group, did you not?" asked Reed.

"That goes into a question which I understand does not come within the powers of the committee," said Insull. "I have consulted my counsel and am advised by him that the committee lacks the power to inquire into what contributions were made to the pre-primary campaign which do not directly bear upon senatorial nominations. When members of the committee seek to go beyond their authority I do not feel called upon to answer."

"Then you make a direct challenge of the authority of the committee to determine where the money went and what it was spent for?" Reed asked.

"Is that a question or a statement?" Insull asked.

"It is as much question as your answer to my other question," said Reed. "However, if you do not care to answer it is all right with me."

Avoid Marring Linoleum

Furniture should always be lifted clear of the floor when it is being moved to prevent scratching or marring the linoleum. If a piano or other heavy furniture has to be rolled across the floor a board or heavy piece of carpet should be laid down to protect the linoleum.

Italian Lake Drained

The lake at Fucino, in central Italy, has no outlet and was constantly overflowing. The Roman emperor Claudius partly drained it, but the draining was made complete by Prince Torlonia beginning in 1862.

LATTER PUTS AMERICAN TENNIS OFFICIALS IN TWO WAY DILEMMA

PROBLEM FOR TENNIS ASSOCIA- TION HOW TO RECEIVE MISS LENGLEN

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 4. — Announcement that Suzanne Lenglen, recognized unofficially as the world's tennis champion, had joined Red Grange in the sports circus of C. C. Pyle, has put American tennis officials in a two way dilemma.

The United States Lawn Tennis Association, which survived a long battle with Bill Tilden about how far a writing athlete could go in tennis without losing an amateur status, found a new problem when Mile. Lenglen decided to turn professional and invade the courts of the United States. The problem of the association is how will we receive Mile. Lenglen and who is the amateur champion now?

The association will have to resort to legal processes to determine the social rating of Mile. Lenglen, but the question of the succeeding champion was solved by looking through the records.

It was suggested to the association that the winner of the American women's championship at Forest Hills could be recognized as the world's champion.

The U. S. association entered the International Federation after it had been agreed and put in document form that there was no such thing as a world's champion player.

That document recognized a world's team champion, the winner of the Davis Cup, the Wimbledon champions and the American champions. The situation as it is now, it was pointed out, is that Mrs. Kathleen McKane Godfree is the Wimbledon women's champion, and Miss Helen Wills is the American champion, unless she is defeated at Forest Hills later this month.

As far as the association is concerned officially, the only hope for Miss Wills to succeed Mile. Lenglen as the world's champion is to defend her American title successfully at Forest Hills and then go to England next summer and defeat all comers at Wimbledon.

"If she succeeds in defeating the best players in the United States and England, Miss Wills can be called by the press a world's champion, but we can't say that she is a world's champion," a representative of the association said.

As far as the rating of Mile. Lenglen is concerned, the association found that there is nothing in the constitution to prevent an amateur player from playing with a professional player—only that it never has been done before.

There is a clause in the constitution, however, which provides that sanction of the tennis association must be secured for any exhibition matches at any allied club, and there are perhaps two courts in the United States that are not within the jurisdiction of the association.

The necessity of sanction places Mile. Lenglen and her pilot, C. C. Pyle, in the same fix that Tex Rickard, Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney are now in with the New York boxing commission.

One part of the commission said to Rickard: "You can match Dempsey and Tunney, but try and get a license."

The tennis association is in the same position to say to Mile. Lenglen: "You can play in this country, but try and find a court and try to get someone to play against you."

"JOLIET BOYS" ARE JUST GROUP OF DAPPER DANDIES

MIGHT BE FINE BALL PLAYERS BUT ARE NO CON- VICTS

MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL EXPOSES TEAM AS PLAYERS FROM MASON CITY, IA.

The so-called Joliet, Ill., state prison ball team arrived in the city at noon today, but, oh, what a surprise they created. Prepared to meet a gang of ex-yeegs, hold-up men, h-lackers from the underworld of the large cities who learned the straight and narrow by playing ball on the prison diamond and using in practice game boulders from the nearby stone pile as baseballs, the press representative was a little bit nervous as the time drew near for their arrival to the city. But, alas, it was not to be, for the so-called terrible men who were trying for a comeback to life, were but a nice looking group of young dapper dandies from the not so distant place of Mason City, Iowa, according to a Minneapolis Journal exposition.

The boys have apparently been getting away with a lot of things in Minnesota — pardon gentlemen, no wrong is meant. Publicity is a great thing and what could be sweeter than a headliner on the local sport sheet: "Prison Boys Play Gentlemen Ball."

The team certainly is not from the Joliet prison for the warden there has disowned them as any of his inmates, the Journal says.

The team, however, is classed as a pretty fair baseball team, more than likely composed of a number of school boys on a barn storming trip. Their game tonight at the Municipal ball park with the Brainerd N. P. city team should prove interesting, even though the cat is out of the bag that they are not the once terrible desperate criminals they are pictured as.

The captain of the so-called Joliet Prison baseball team, who refused to give his name for publication, late this afternoon announced that today would be the last time the team would play under the name of the Joliet State Prison team. He was uncertain as to the future of the club, whether they would continue their tour, or disband.

HUNDREDS APPLY FOR TICKETS FOR WORLD'S SERIES

New York, Aug. 4. — (UP) — Hundreds of applications for world's series tickets have been made to the offices of the New York Yankees, according to Ed Barrow, business manager of the club.

Following the usual custom the club refused to accept any applications until it is made mathematically certain that the Yankees will win the American league pennant and participate in the series.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH BRITISH GOLF?

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

"England's only hope for the future in athletics is that the blasted Americans never take up cricket," Tom Webster, the celebrated cartoonist of the London Mail, said after the American golf and tennis teams had completed their recent triumphant invasion of Europe.

"If the Americans," he said, "ever go about cricket seriously in a few years the only thing England will have left will be a castle or two and Americans may buy them if they can't win 'em."

Webster's viewpoint is that of the most widely read humorist in Great Britain but among the more seriously inclined of his countrymen, the recent rout of the English athletes was taken almost as a national calamity. Something that called for a bowed head instead of a cheery comeback—"What of it?"

Everywhere in London, in the clubs and pubs, in the trams and on the streets, you could hear, after the Americans had gone back home: "What is the matter with us?"

"They called the roll sadly, naming all their reverses:

We never had the American Yacht Cup.

We lost the polo cup.

We lost the Davis Cup, the Wightman Cup, and haven't figured at Wimbledon for seven years.

We never have won the Olympic games.

We never have won the Walker golf cup; we have just lost the amateur golf championship to the United States and have been disgraced in the open championship.

What is the reason for it?

The last sad disaster, the loss of the amateur championship and the utter rout of the leading British players in the open championship were the blows that almost killed father and developed into a national cry to find the trouble and correct it.

Golf was the last stronghold behind which British prestige was fortified and when the Americans crumbled the walls, leaving hardly a stone standing, it may be, as Webster put it, that not even Windsor Castle is safe now.

British golf writers were generous to the point of extravagance in praising the golf of Jess Sweetser and particularly the game and character of Bobby Jones. Not only did they concede that Bobby is the greatest player in the world but they printed the opinion of Jim Braid, Harry Vardon and other authorities that no greater golfer ever lived.

Veteran American correspondents who have been residing in London for ten, fifteen and twenty years, said that never before in their memory had newspaper publishers allowed their correspondents the liberty of such superlatives and flatteries that they showered on Bobby Jones.

Admitting the superiority of the American game as it was demonstrated at Muirfield and St. Annes, the comment of the leading writers switched from bare facts of tragedy to theories for future redemption and for days there followed, after the golf disasters, serious discussions and expressions of opinion in the leading papers relative to the cause of the decline of British golf, the amazing ascendancy of the American game, particularly as played by the youngsters, and what was to be done about it.

Waiter Hagen, in an alleged interview which he later repudiated, blamed the poor game of the British players on laziness and recommended that they take off their coats and get down to work.

There are good reasons to believe that Hagen didn't say this, but if he did, out of the hearing of the American correspondents who went to the boat train with the players, he would not have been far wrong.

Even a casual reporter, without the vaguest knowledge of golf, observed in the demeanor of the British players a most striking lack of hustle and an attitude that all was lost.

One of the best known professionals, a former Englishman, and an ex-champion, who has been living in the United States for years, was asked by the writer after the debacle at St. Annes: "What is the matter with the British players?"

If the alleged interview of Hagen's created any stir in London (it didn't create near as much as Americans seem to think) the answer of this professional would have caused a disturbance.

"What's the matter with them? Why, they're all yellow. That's all," he answered.

"You don't want to be quoted on that, do you?" he was asked.

"Well, you might make it sound a little nicer," he replied. "Say that they lack concentration!"

It is worth a note in passing that the "lack of concentration" later was mentioned by several critics.

The theories and reasons for poor British golf advanced by the English writers were treated seriously and for the most part were soundly intelligent, as sport specialists in England usually are. Only a few fell back on poorly grounded alibis.

Among the latter were those who said the American supremacy was due to national affluence, that American players were all rich and that they had so much time at their disposal they made a business instead of a hobby out of golf.

This, it does not need to be explained to American readers, is utterly false. If any one, of the opinion that all the American players were of great means, could have seen the amateurs at St. Annes trying to stretch a "bob" into a pound, the opinion would have been changed to a conviction that the boys were close to the hat passing profession.

Others said that American players, in a country where warm sunshine and a good golf course can be found any day in the year, had the opportunity of more practice and competition than the British players and that the Americans played so much they made a business of it instead of a game.

Hearing this on one side, it was amusing to hear from the other side that Abe Mitchell wasn't on his game in the open championship because he was worn out from too much competition. Instead of being made more proficient by all-year-around competition, it may work the other way to the detriment of a player's game. Hagen told friends at St. Annes, before he started playing, that he feared he had been playing too much and was over-golfed.

As far as making a business of golf, there are no players in the world who make golf so much of an exclusive business as the British professionals.

Some very intelligent theories were written by other critics who attributed the superiority of the Americans to the system of playing for figures alone, to play the ball from wherever it falls and to try even harder to save shots than to make them. They also paid tribute indirectly to the gameness of the American golfer.

"Tell an American," one of them said, "that he can't do something and he'll tell you: 'The hell I can't,' and he'll go and do it."

R. Enderly Howard, one of the leading London golf writers, analyzed the situation very intelligently when he wrote in the "London Sketch":

"The American plays solely to accomplish each hole in the par figure, or better, if possible, on the principle that it is no use letting the other fellow influence your own line of action. It seems on the whole to be a very effective scheme. Their business being to produce a high standard of play, they go for the scores, whether the event be by holes or scores, and, as a consequence, they cultivate a calm outward bearing and a detached attitude toward their rival. They do not wear their hearts on their coat sleeves. This state of the American's mind is communicated to his opponent, whose mental state goes up or down, according to the nature of the signs in the man whom he is trying to beat.

"The British are still influenced by the personal touch; they study their opponents' doings, and are guided in their own policies and hopes and fears by the nature of those achievements. It is the old way of playing golf. The Americans' is the modern way."

(To be concluded tomorrow)

"JOLIET BOYS" ARE JUST GROUP OF DAPPER DANS

MIGHT BE FINE BALL PLAYERS BUT ARE NO CON- VICTS

MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL EXPOSES TEAM AS PLAYERS FROM MASON CITY, IA.

The so-called Joliet, Ill., state prison ball team arrived in the city at noon today, but, oh, what a surprise they created. Prepared to meet a gang of ex-yeggs, hold-up men, hucksters from the underworld of the large cities who learned the straight and narrow by playing ball on the prison diamond and using in practice games boulders from the nearby stone pile as baseballs, the press representative was a little bit nervous as the time drew near for their arrival to the city. But, alas, it was not to be, for the so-called terrible men who were trying for a comeback to life, were but a nice looking group of young dapper dans from the not so distant place of Mason City, Iowa, according to a Minneapolis Journal exposition.

The boys have apparently been getting away with a lot of things in Minnesota—pardon gentlemen, no wrong is meant. Publicity is a great thing and what could be sweeter than a headline on the local sport sheet: "Prison Boys Play Gentlemen Ball."

The team certainly is not from the Joliet prison for the warden there has disowned them as any of his inmates, the Journal says.

The team, however, is classed as a pretty fair baseball team, more than likely composed of a number of school boys on a barn storming trip. Their game tonight at the Municipal ball park with the Brainerd N. P. city team should prove interesting, even though the cat is out of the bag that they are not the once terrible desperate criminals they are pictured as.

The captain of the so-called Joliet Prison baseball team, who refused to give his name for publication, late this afternoon announced that today would be the last time the team would play under the name of the Joliet State Prison team. He was uncertain as to the future of the club, whether they would continue their tour or disband.

HUNDREDS APPLY FOR TICKETS FOR WORLD'S SERIES

New York, Aug. 4. —(UP)—Hundreds of applications for world's series tickets have been made to the offices of the New York Yankees, according to Ed Barrow, business manager of the club.

Following the usual custom the club refused to accept any applications until it is made mathematically certain that the Yankees will win the American league pennant and participate in the series.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH BRITISH GOLF?

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

"England's only hope for the future in athletics is that the blasted Americans never take up cricket," Tom Webster, the celebrated cartoonist of the London Mail, said after the American golf and tennis teams had completed their recent triumphant invasion of Europe.

"If the Americans," he said, "ever go about cricket seriously in a few years the only thing England will have left will be a castle or two and Americans may buy them if they can't win 'em."

Webster's viewpoint is that of the most widely read humorist in Great Britain but among the more seriously inclined of his countrymen, the recent rout of the English athletes was taken almost as a national calamity. Something that called for a bowed head instead of a cheery comeback—"What of it?"

Everywhere in London, in the clubs and pubs, in the trams and on the streets, you could hear, after the Americans had gone back home: "What is the matter with us?"

"They called the roll sadly, naming all their reverses:
We never had the American Yacht Cup.
We lost the polo cup.

We lost the Davis Cup, the Wightman Cup, and haven't figured at Wimbledon for seven years.

We never have won the Olympic games.

We never have won the Walker golf cup; we have just lost the amateur golf championship to the United States and have been disgraced in the open championship.

What is the reason for it?

The last sad disaster, the loss of the amateur championship and the utter rout of the leading British players in the open championship were the blows that almost killed father and developed into a national cry to find the trouble and correct it.

Golf was the last stronghold behind which British prestige was fortified and when the Americans crumbled the walls, leaving hardly a stone standing, it may be, as Webster put it, that not even Windsor Castle is safe now. British golf writers were generous to the point of extravagance in praising the golf of Jess Sweetser and particularly the game and character of Bobby Jones. Not only did they concede that Bobby is the greatest player in the world but they printed the opinion of Jim Braid, Harry Vardon and other authorities that no greater golfer ever lived.

Veteran American correspondents who have been residing in London for ten, fifteen and twenty years, said that never before in their memory had newspaper publishers allowed their correspondents the liberty of such superlatives and flatteries that they showered on Bobby Jones.

Admitting the superiority of the American game as it was demonstrated at Muirfield and St. Annes, the comment of the leading writers switched from bare facts of tragedy to theories for future redemption and for days there followed, after the golf disasters, serious discussions and expressions of opinion in the leading papers relative to the cause of the decline of British golf, the amazing ascendancy of the American game, particularly as played by the youngsters, and what was to be done about it.

Walter Hagen, in an alleged interview which he later repudiated, blamed the poor game of the British players on laziness and recommended that they take off their coats and get down to work.

There are good reasons to believe that Hagen didn't say this, but if he did, out of the hearing of the American correspondents who went to the boat train with the players, he would not have been far wrong.

Even a casual reporter, without the vaguest knowledge of golf, observed in the demeanor of the British players a most striking lack of hustle and an attitude that all was lost.

One of the best known professionals, a former Englishman, and an ex-champion, who has been living in the United States for years, was asked by the writer after the debacle at St. Annes: "What is the matter with the British players?"

If the alleged interview of Hagen's created any stir in London (it didn't create near as much as Americans seem to think) the answer of this professional would have caused a disturbance.

"What's the matter with them? Why, they're all yellow. That's all," he answered.

"You don't want to be quoted on that, do you?" he was asked.
"Well, you might make it sound a little nicer," he replied. "Say that they lack concentration!"

It is worth a note in passing that the "lack of concentration" later was mentioned by several critics.

The theories and reasons for poor British golf advanced by the English writers were treated seriously and for the most part were soundly intelligent, as sport specialists in England usually are. Only a few fell back on poorly grounded alibis.

Among the latter were those who said the American supremacy was due to national affluence, that American players were all rich and that they had so much time at their disposal they made a business instead of a hobby out of golf.

This, it does not need to be explained to American readers, is utterly false. If any one, of the opinion that all the American players were of great means, could have seen the amateurs at St. Annes trying to stretch a "bob" into a pound, the opinion would have been changed to a conviction that the boys were close to the hat passing profession.

Others said that American players, in a country where warm sunshine and a good golf course can be found any day in the year, had the opportunity of more practice and competition than the British players and that the Americans played so much they made a business of it instead of a game.

Hearing this on one side, it was amusing to hear from the other side that Abe Mitchell wasn't on his game in the open championship because he was worn out from too much competition. Instead of being made more proficient by all-year-around competition, it may work the other way to the detriment of a player's game. Hagen told friends at St. Annes, before he started playing, that he feared he had been playing too much and was over-golfed.

As far as making a business of golf, there are no players in the world who make golf so much of an exclusive business as the British professionals.

Some very intelligent theories were written by other critics who attributed the superiority of the Americans to the system of playing for figures alone, to play the ball from wherever it falls and to try even harder to save shots than to make them. They also paid tribute indirectly to the gameness of the American golfer.

"Tell an American," one of them said, "that he can't do something and he'll tell you: 'The hell I can't,' and he'll go and do it."

R. Enderly Howard, one of the leading London golf writers, analyzed the situation very intelligently when he wrote in the "London Sketch":

"The American plays solely to accomplish each hole in the par figure, or better, if possible, on the principle that it is no use letting the other fellow influence your own line of action. It seems on the whole to be a very effective scheme. Their business being to produce a high standard of play, they go for the scores, whether the event be by holes or scores, and, as a consequence, they cultivate a calm outward bearing and a detached attitude toward their rival. They do not wear their hearts on their coat sleeves. This state of the American's mind is communicated to his opponent, whose mental state goes up or down, according to the nature of the signs in the man whom he is trying to beat.

"The British are still influenced by the personal touch; they study their opponents' doings, and are guided in their own policies and hopes and fears by the nature of those achievements. It is the old way of playing golf. The Americans' is the modern way."

(To be concluded tomorrow)

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Carl Mays, who put out the Boston Braves and made the one run tally by his Cincinnati Reds stand up to win 1 to 0. Adolpho Luque, pitching the second game for the Reds had a little better support and won 3 to 2.

The Cubs and Giants split even in a double bill. The Bruins lost the first 5 to 4 and took the second 5 to 3. Slashing out 22 hits the Pittsburgh Pirates swamped the Phillies 14 to 2 and split the series at Quakertown.

In a game festooned with home runs the St. Louis Browns nipped the Washington Senators 7 to 6. Goose Goslin smacked two of the fence busters, while Williams, Schang, H. Rice and Miller collected one each.

Rallying in the ninth to tie the three run lead piled up by Connie Mack's Athletics Cobb's Tigers went out and won in the 10th 4 to 3.

Boston's cellar cleaning Red Sox stopped the spurt of the ladder of the Cleveland Indians by winning both games of a double header 8 to 7 and 7 to 0. The victories stopped the Indian winning streak of seven straight.

Lazzari's homer in the seventh with one on the paths defeated the Chicago White Sox. The Yankees were 7 to 6 winners. Johnny Mostil, outfielder for the Sox, was made a life member of the Elks and presented with a platinum baseball during the day's proceedings.

Scoring three runs off Zinn, Kansas City pitcher, in the fifth inning, the Louisville Colonels put themselves in a position to win their fourth straight game, 6 to 5, and increase their lead over Milwaukee to three full games.

While the Colonels were winning the Milwaukee Brewers failed to cut much ice at Indianapolis and Indianapolis romped home an easy winner 9 to 4. Eddelman on the mound for Milwaukee lacked effectiveness in the pinches.

Ferdie Schupp, St. Paul southpaw, held the Columbus Bucks to five scattered hits, the Saints winning 4 to 2. Wade, Saint rightfielder, was the hitting star, getting three singles in four trips to the plate.

Minneapolis and Toledo split a double header, the Millers taking the first game 8 to 4, while the Hens won the second 3 to 1.

FOUR PIRATE PITCHERS HIT HARD BY BRAVES

Boston, Aug. 4. — (UP) — Four Pittsburgh pitchers were hit hard by the Boston Braves today and the Pirates lost the first game of their double header, 14 to 0.

The Pirates touched Bob Smith for only six hits, while the slugging Bostonians were rapping out 19 safe blows.

PAVING PROJECT TO BE COMPLETED ON TIME

Contractors on Paving From Belle Prairie to Brainerd Working at Top Speed

TO COMPLETE BY OCTOBER 1

A Quarter Mile of Paving Being Averaged Each Day in Construction of Highway

What has appeared almost impossible considering the setbacks from weather conditions, and other hindrances, the contractors in charge of the paving project of Highway No. 27 from Belle Prairie to Brainerd, Ostrand and Hallett, contractors, hope to complete the work by the scheduled date, October 1.

New mixtures of concrete, tested in the laboratories of the Highway Commission at St. Paul in an effort to obtain concrete which would dry more quickly than any used before on State Highway projects, resulted in a mixture which dries sufficiently hard in ten days or two weeks to permit automobile traffic. The use of this formula which calls for calcium chloride in the mixing water and materially aids the contractors and lessens the discomfort of tourists, since they need use detours a much shorter time than previously.

Mr. Ostrand, contractor made the following statement in the Little Falls Transcript in a recent issue:

"We have approximately 125 men working for us," he said. "Of this number, thirty are employed in our washing plant at Fort Ripley where we dig our gravel and wash it. The rest of the men work in other departments. A great number of these men are from this immediate territory, while some come from Stearns and Todd counties and a few from other districts.

"We have been laying approximately a quarter-mile of paving a day, and we have already broken past records several times. As I remember, the best record we have made was some time in the middle of June, when we laid 1,453 feet.

"Fifteen miles of the paving have already been laid and the remainder will be finished by the required date, October 1," continued Mr. Ostrand. "This paving is of approximately the same thickness as that used on the stretch between Minneapolis and Little Falls, although on this stretch the thickness is seven and one half inches in the center and eight inches on the sides. On highways 27 and 31 the paving was seven and one-half inches thick all the way across."

This strip of paving, when completed, will mark the longest single stretch of pavement in the state, extending from just below Owatonna to Brainerd. It will be approximately 210 miles long. Brainerd citizens have announced their intention of celebrating the finishing of the highway and many Little Falls citizens announced their intention of co-operating with them.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY PARTY

N. M. Pike and Daughter Mrs. Otto Ostby Entertain at Linden House

N. M. Pike and daughter Mrs. Otto Ostby entertained at Linden house on Round lake the following friends at a double birthday party, Aug. 1. Mr. and Mrs. T. Willis, Mr. and Mrs. E. Workman, Mr. and Mrs. F. Benjamin, and two grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. B. Bork and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ostby and four children. Four generations at the party had their pictures taken, Mrs. J. N. Francis, the great grandmother, Mrs. N. M. Pike, grandmother, Mrs. Ostby, mother, and little Arvilla Ostby, great grand child. The birthday cake was a large white one with pink candles representing the various ages. The menu consisted of chicken sandwiches, potato and fruit salads, ice cream and coffee. Everyone had a most enjoyable time and wished that they could be present at many more of the former's birthdays.

Other guests at Linden house were Mr. and Mrs. A. Spencer, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Voss of St. Louis, Mrs. C. E. Peabody, Mrs. Addie Conrad, Mrs. J. Spencer.

BASKET SOCIAL

Given on Friday Evening at the Farm Home of Chas. Swanson

A regular old time basket social will be given at Chas. Swanson's farm, about five miles south of Brainerd, Friday evening. There will be baskets galore, filled to the brim with the most tempting lunches waiting to be devoured by the hungry folks.

This social is being given by the Dorcas society of the Swedish Bethany church. The funds realized will help towards the redecorating of the interior of the church.

Everybody come and enjoy yourself. Ladies bring your baskets, and men, be prepared to buy one. Starts at 8 o'clock, coffee will be served. Mrs. Swanson will serve lunch free to the children who do not have baskets.

MISS HAZEL RUSSELL MARRIED

Former Brainerd Girl Married in California Last Month; to Reside at San Marcos

The wedding took place at Norwalk, Calif., on June 27, of Miss Hazel Russell, former Brainerd girl to Carl Huchting, according to the Norwalk Call.

Miss Russell is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell, former residents of Brainerd. The young couple are spending their honeymoon at Catalina Island. On their return they will make their home on their ranch in San Marcos, which is one of the most beautiful ranches in the Norwalk valley.

SERVICE NEWS AGENCY MOVES

Purchases Product of Brainerd's Newest Industry, a Thermotite Building

LOCATED 316 S. 6TH STREET

Makes Fine Temporary Location for Their News Stand and Office

The Service News Agency has purchased a product of Brainerd's newest industry, a Thermotite building, and erected it at 316 South Sixth street, next to Sherlund's garage, for a temporary location for their news stand and office. Remodeling and enlarging of the Brainerd Dispatch building, work on which is to start immediately, forced the news stand to vacate the old Husted building.

The Strout brothers have developed the magazine and newspaper business from almost nothing to a real flourishing and up-to-date business and through their efforts Brainerd can boast of the most complete news stand north of the Twin Cities. Many out of town daily and Sunday newspapers are handled during the summer for accommodation of the tourists. Mr. Strout states that he is in hopes of obtaining a location for his stand in the new Elks building when he will enlarge his establishment still more.

NEW ELECTRIC WASHER

"One Minute Washer" Has Many New Features to be Demonstrated in Homes

Many women are looking forward to a home demonstration of the new "One Minute Washer," offered during the next four weeks by B. W. Orne local dealer.

A factory representative will arrive Monday to show the new features of this washer and explain in detail its advance construction.

During his stay B. W. Orne has arranged for a series of home demonstrations. Any housewife may arrange such a demonstration for her own home—she will not be urged to buy but simply shown how the washer will handle her own particular washing problem.

MINNESOTA STATE FAIR

Offers $145,839.50 in Premiums for Educational Exhibits

The Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Dairy Exposition, September 4 to 11, is offering $145,839.50 in premiums for educational exhibits, which is considerably more than the total prizes presented by any other state fair or exposition in the world this year.

Since agriculture and livestock raising are our two greatest Northwest industries, the premiums for livestock, agriculture, horticulture, and allied exhibits, are unusually large. Cattle are given $28,786.00; agriculture, $20,533.00; horses, $20,530.00; horticulture, $7,756.00; swine, $8,170.00; sheep, goats and wool, $5,952.00; and poultry, $3,551.00.

No other fair in America has given such encouragement to boys' and girls' club work, and the premiums for this purpose amount to $20,011.50 this year. More than 1,000 boys and girls will attend the fair to demonstrate club work projects at the fair's expense. The dairy, speed, bee culture, fine arts and woman's departments are given the balance of prizes.

It is the plan of the State Fair this season to encourage the largest entry of Minnesota products of all kinds ever seen at the fair. The competition of exhibitors from other states has always been keener in the livestock department than any other, and the fair is making a special effort to interest Minnesota breeders in sending their best animals to the coming show that the lion's share of premiums may not be won by outsiders.

The liberal prizes offered for all kinds of exhibits insure such splendid displays and large attendance that exhibitors from all parts of the country are entering this year, and record-breaking shows are assured.

MUNICIPAL BAND CONCERT TONIGHT

To be Held at Lum Park Commencing at 8 O'clock if Weather Permits

PLEASING SELECTIONS

Leader W. R. Hiller Requests That People do Not Move Cars During Playing

The Municipal band will put on another concert tonight at Lum park if weather conditions permit. It was announced this morning by W. R. Hiller, conductor of the band. Mr. Hiller requests that during the rendering of the band selections the owners of cars refrain from moving their cars about.

The following program has been arranged:

1. Circus Band March.
2. Overture, "Spick and Span"—Jewell.
3. Foxtrot, selected.
4. "Somewhere a Voice is Calling"—Cornet solo.
5. "Flower Girl," Intermezzo—Wenrich.
6. Selection from "The Goddess of Liberty"—Howard.
7. Foxtrot, selected.
8. "Paraphrase"—Melody in F, Rubinstein.
9. "The Radiant" overture—Kieffer.
10. Foxtrot, selected.
11. Twilight Memories—C. L. Barnhouse.
12. Brainerd Municipal Band March.
13. Star Spangled Banner.

Penny Not Worth While

At Times square a motine crowd waited for the long-distance busses. Other crowds pushed by in a steady stream, yet above the traffic noises came the clink of a dropped coin. Those passing looked down, alert, curious, until a single penny whirled into sight, spun around and then dropped to the sidewalk. No one picked it up. It was tramped on, pushed and started rolling again. Many looked, but none stopped until a chubby little fellow, holding tight to his mother's hand, spied it.

"Mother, mother!" he cried in excitement. "I see my penny! Stop—let me—let me pick it up!"

"Come, come," chided the mother, impatiently, as she jerked him along. "It's only a penny. Let it alone. You'll get your gloves dirty, dear."—New York Times.

Colonial Workmanship

The greatest quality in all Colonial work is dignity. In the houses of the rich and the houses of the poor there is apparent the same dignified scorn of ostentation and the same pride in honest building and honest living. Although it has been said that Colonial architecture is old-fashioned and belongs to a day that is past, this is no more true of Colonial design than of any other of the traditional styles. Furthermore, Colonial architecture seems out of date only because its progress was stopped by the Greek revival and the eighteen eighties. If it had continued to grow and develop, how much more lovely would our countryside be than it is now with its potpourri of all styles—including the Scandinavian!

Whole Duty of Man

Church slogan from Wakefield: "Be square all the week and then be round on Sunday."—Boston Transcript.

She Saw to That

First fly on arm of girl, to companion—"Have you noticed, my dear, how dusty the roads are today?"—Paris Rire.

TWO COUNTRY BANKS IN CONSOLIDATION

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—(UP)—A. J. Vogel, state banking commissioner, today announced consolidation of the First National Bank and First State Bank, both of New Germany, Carver county. The combined bank will operate as the First State Bank.

Aileen Pringle and Bne Lyon Featured in Great Deception

Aileen Pringle and Ben Lyon are co-featured in Robert Kane's "The Great Deception," which opens on Thursday at the Lyceum Theatre for a two days' engagement.

This is the second picture in which Miss Pringle has appeared for Mr. Kane and the fifth in which she appears opposite Mr. Lyon. Others in the cast are Sam Hardy, Basil Rathbone, Charlotte Walker, Amelia Summerville and Hubert Wilke.

"The Savage" Sets Pace "The Savage," a First National picture featuring Ben Lyon and May McAvoy, opened yesterday at the Lyceum Theatre, and sets the pace for the current season's better pictures.

In this picture is everything one can possibly want in a motion picture. There are thrills, love story, laughs by the score, beautiful women, perfectly marvelous settings, and Ben Lyon gives one of the best performances of his screen career. See it tonight.

LADIES AID MEET

Bethlehem Lutheran Church Ladies to Meet at Cottage of M. J. Reis on Gull Lake

The ladies aid of the Bethlehem Lutheran church will meet Sunday, August 8, at Birch Grove on Gull Lake at the M. J. Reis cottage. All are requested to meet at the church at 2 o'clock, when the transportation committee will do its best to handle those without transportation. The meeting will start at 3 o'clock. Friends are cordially invited.

ROTARY HEARS DR. WILLIAMS

Famous Divine From Newton, Ia., Gives Inspiring Exposition of Rotary Principle

COUNTY FAIR DISCUSSED

President F. G. Gustafson and Secretary A. C. Larson Speak of Coming Event in County

Brainerd Rotary club at its last session heard an inspiring exposition by Dr. George Williams, of Newton, Ia., of the principles of Rotary. The Iowa minister annually spends his vacations in our lake region and feels at home at Brainerd club.

"There are no new principles in the world," said Rev. Williams. It's simply adaptation of age-old principles enunciated when the sermon on the mount was first given to the world, when tablets of Moses were written, etc. It behooves us of these modern days to put into practice good principles."

President F. G. Gustafson of the Crow Wing county fair board spoke of the enterprise at Pequot and urged cooperation of Brainerd people to make the fair a success.

Visiting Rotarians

Visiting Rotarians and guests at the club meeting were:

Harry Horn, Wichita, Kan., Surgeon.

R. E. Clark, Wichita, Kan., Office Building Manager.

B. F. Morgan, Clay Center, Kan., Physician.

Ora Simpson, Algona, Ia., Life Insurance.

George Phil Sheridan, Rockester, Minister.

for rainy days one needs a slicker

The small amount of money one needs to spend to get a satisfactory raincoat or slicker is so small, and the protection afforded is so great, that one can scarcely afford not to have one.

One of the most important operations in the manufacture of raincoats is the sealing of the seams. The cloth in a garment may be thoroughly waterproof, but if it leaks at the seams it is worthless. Most inferior garments on the market have just this defect. Their seams are closed only with cheap cement. The price may be low, but the quality is still lower.

We should like to have you see these good looking slickers we have, that came in this week, some in plain colors, others in plaids, or plaid reversible materials.

Prices range from $3.95, $4.95 on up to $11.50

PAVING PROJECT TO BE COMPLETED ON TIME

Contractors on Paving From Belle Prairie to Brainerd Working at Top Speed

TO COMPLETE BY OCTOBER 1

A Quarter Mile of Paving Being Averaged Each Day in Construction of Highway

What has appeared almost impossible considering the setbacks from weather conditions, and other hindrances, the contractors in charge of the paving project of Highway No. 27 from Belle Prairie to Brainerd, Ostrand and Hallett, contractors, hope to complete the work by the scheduled date, October 1.

New mixtures of concrete, tested in the laboratories of the Highway Commission at St. Paul in an effort to obtain concrete which would dry more quickly than any used before on State Highway projects, resulted in a mixture which dries sufficiently hard in ten days or two weeks to permit automobile traffic. The use of this formula which calls for calcium chloride in the mixing water and materially aids the contractors and lessens the discomfort of tourists, since they need use detours a much shorter time than previously.

Mr. Ostrand, contractor made the following statement in the Little Falls Transcript in a recent issue:

"We have approximately 125 men working for us," he said. "Of this number, thirty are employed in our washing plant at Fort Ripley where we dig our gravel and wash it. The rest of the men work in other departments. A great number of these men are from this immediate territory, while some come from Stearns and Todd counties and a few from other districts.

"We have been laying approximately a quarter-mile of paving a day, and we have already broken past records several times. As I remember, the best record we have made was some time in the middle of June, when we laid 1,453 feet.

"Fifteen miles of the paving have already been laid and the remainder will be finished by the required date, October 1," continued Mr. Ostrand. "This paving is of approximately the same thickness as that used on the stretch between Minneapolis and Little Falls, although on this stretch the thickness is seven and one half inches in the center and eight inches on the sides. On highways 27 and 3, the paving was seven and one-half inches thick all the way across."

This strip of paving, when completed, will mark the longest single stretch of pavement in the state, extending from just below Owatonna to Brainerd. It will be approximately 210 miles long. Brainerd citizens have announced their intention of celebrating the finishing of the highway and many Little Falls citizens announced their intention of co-operating with them.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY PARTY

N. M. Pike and Daughter Mrs. Otto Ostby Entertain at Linden House

N. M. Pike and daughter Mrs. Otto Ostby entertained at Linden house on Round lake the following friends at a double birthday party, Aug. 1. Mr. and Mrs. T. Willis, Mr. and Mrs. E. Workman, Mr. and Mrs. F. Benjamin, and two grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. B. Bork and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ostby and four children. Four generations at the party had their pictures taken, Mrs. J. N. Francis, the great grandmother, Mrs. N. M. Pike, grandmother, Mrs. Ostby, mother, and little Arvilla Ostby, great grand child. The birthday cake was a large white one with pink candles representing the various ages. The menu consisted of chicken sandwiches, potato and fruit salads, ice cream and coffee. Everyone had a most enjoyable time and wished that they could be present at many more of the former's birthdays.

Other guests at Linden house were Mr. and Mrs. A. Spencer, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Voss of St. Louis, Mrs. C. E. Peabody, Mrs. Addie Conrad, Mrs. J. Spencer.

BASKET SOCIAL

Given on Friday Evening at the Farm Home of Chas. Swanson

A regular old time basket social will be given at Chas. Swanson's farm, about five miles south of Brainerd, Friday evening. There will be baskets galore, filled to the brim with the most tempting lunches waiting to be devoured by the hungry folks.

This social is being given by the Dorcas society of the Swedish Bethany church. The funds realized will help towards the redecoration of the interior of the church.

Everybody come and enjoy yourself. Ladies bring your baskets, and men, be prepared to buy one. Starts at 8 o'clock, coffee will be served.

Mrs. Swanson will serve lunch free to the children who do not have baskets.

MISS HAZEL RUSSELL MARRIED

Miss Russell is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell, former residents of Brainerd. The young couple are spending their honeymoon at Catalina Island. On their return they will make their home on their ranch in San Marcos, which is one of the most beautiful ranches in the Norwalk valley.

SERVICE NEWS

AGENCY MOVES

Purchases Product of Brainerd's Newest Industry, a Thermotite Building

LOCATED 316 S. 6TH STREET

Makes Fine Temporary Location for Their News Stand and Office

The Service News Agency has purchased a product of Brainerd's newest industry, a Thermotite building, and erected it at 316 South Sixth street, next to Sherlund's garage, for a temporary location for their news stand and office. Remodeling and enlarging of the Brainerd Dispatch building, work on which is to start immediately, forced the news stand to vacate the old Husted building.

The Strout brothers have developed the magazine and newspaper business from almost nothing to a real flourishing and up-to-date business and through their efforts Brainerd can boast of the most complete news stand north of the Twin Cities. Many out of town daily and Sunday newspapers are handled during the summer for accommodation of the tourists. Mr. Strout states that he is in hopes of obtaining a location for his stand in the new Elks building when he will enlarge his establishment still more.

NEW ELECTRIC WASHER

"One Minute Washer" Has Many New Features to be Demonstrated in Homes

Many women are looking forward to a home demonstration of the new "One Minute Washer," offered during the next four weeks by B. W. Orne local dealer.

A factory representative will arrive Monday to show the new features of this washer and explain in detail its advance construction. During his stay B. W. Orne has arranged for a series of home demonstrations. Any housewife may arrange such a demonstration for her own home—she will not be urged to buy but simply shown how the washer will handle her own particular washing problem.

MINNESOTA STATE FAIR

Offers $145,839.50 in Premiums for Educational Exhibits

The Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Dairy Exposition, September 4 to 11, is offering $145,839.50 in premiums for educational exhibits, which is considerably more than the total prizes presented by any other state fair or exposition in the world this year.

Since agriculture and livestock raising are our two greatest North-west industries, the premiums for livestock, agriculture, horticulture, and allied exhibits, are unusually large. Cattle are given $28,786.00; agriculture, $20,533.00; horses, $20,530.00; horticulture, $7,756.00; swine, $8,170.00; sheep, goats and wool, $5,052.00; and poultry, $3,551.00.

No other fair in America has given such encouragement to boys' and girls' club work, and the premiums for this purpose amount to $20,011.50 this year. More than 1,000 boys and girls will attend the fair to demonstrate club work projects at the fair's expense. The dairy, speed, bee culture, fine arts and woman's departments are given the balance of prizes.

It is the plan of the State Fair this season to encourage the largest entry of Minnesota products of all kinds ever seen at the fair. The competition of exhibitors from other states has always been keener in the livestock department than any other, and the fair is making a special effort to interest Minnesota breeders in sending their best animals to the coming show that the lion's share of premiums may not be won by outside entrants.

The liberal prizes offered for all kinds of exhibits insure such splendid displays and large attendance that exhibitors from all parts of the country are entering this year, and record-breaking shows are assured.

Penny Not Worth While

At Times square a matinee crowd waited for the long-distance busses. Other crowds pushed by in a steady stream, yet above the traffic noises came the clink of a dropped coin. Those passing looked down, alert, curious, until a single penny whirled into sight, spun around and then dropped to the sidewalk. No one picked it up. It was tramped on, pushed and started rolling again. Many looked, but none stopped until a chubby little fellow, holding tight to his mother's hand, spied it. "Mother, mother!" he cried in excitement. "I see my penny! Stop—let me—let me pick it up!" "Come, come," chided the mother, impatiently, as she jerked him along. "It's only a penny. Let it alone. You'll get your gloves dirty, dear."—New York Times.

Colonial Workmanship

The greatest quality in all Colonial work is dignity. In the houses of the rich and the houses of the poor there is apparent the same dignified scorn of ostentation and the same pride in honest building and honest living. Although it has been said that Colonial architecture is old-fashioned and belongs to a day that is past, this is no more true of Colonial design than of any other of the traditional styles. Furthermore, Colonial architecture seems out of date only because its progress was stopped by the Greek revival and the eighteen eighties. If it had continued to grow and develop, how much more lovely would our countryside be than it is now with its potpourri of all styles—including the Scandinavian!

COUNTY FAIR DISCUSSED

President F. G. Gustafson and Secretary A. C. Larson Speak of Coming Event in County

Brainerd Rotary club at its last session heard an inspiring exposition by Dr. George Williams, of Newton, Ia., of the principles of Rotary. The Iowa minister annually spends his vacations in our lake region and feels at home at Brainerd club.

"There are no new principles in the world," said Rev. Williams. It's simply adaptation of age-old principles enunciated when the sermon on the mount was first given to the world, when tablets of Moses were written, etc. It behooves us of these modern days to put into practice good principles."

President F. G. Gustafson of the Crow Wing county fair board spoke of the enterprise at Pequot and urged cooperation of Brainerd people to make the fair a success.

Visiting Rotarians

Visiting Rotarians and guests at the club meeting were:

Harry Horn, Wichita, Kan., Surgeon.

COCHRAN CONFIRMS INTERVIEW

New York, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Another skepticism regarding Thomas Cochran's optimism about General Motors was dissipated today when he sent a wireless from mid-ocean to J. P. Morgan & Co., confirming the interview given Dow Jones & Co., before sailing. This confirmation gave fresh impetus to the demand for the stock which rushed into fresh record territory on a volume of heavy dealings. Support was also in evidence for other high priced industrials, imparting a buoyant tone to the market.

Sharp advances occurred in Baldwin, General Railway Signal, Westinghouse Air Brake, International Harvester, Case Threshing Machine and American Smelting. Its large General Motors holdings gave particular momentum to the upswing in Dupont, which pushed through 300, thereby substantially exceeding the best levels previously attained.

With stocks of this class moving aggressively ahead, no opportunity develop and the general list was in a was given reactionary tendencies to confident mood throughout the afternoon.

The market closed lower.

TWO POSSES SEARCH FOR LOST YOUTH

Phillips, Wis., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Two posses searching the countryside adjacent to this place had, up until noon, failed to find any trace of Frank Hanitz, 12 year old Milwaukee boy, who is lost in the woods. The boy became lost while on a berry picking trip with his uncle.

Widower Congratulated

"Since my wife's death, five years ago, I have suffered greatly from stomach and liver trouble and gas attacks. I lost 50 pounds, and at times was as yellow as saffron. My doctors could not help me. Six doses of MAYR'S have entirely cured me. I have regained my weight and every one is congratulating me how well I look." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists everywhere.

HITT AND RUNN—It Is Hard to Believe That Our Mortal Bodies Are Really of Such Little Value! BY HITT

SAY BULL—ATA LECTURE I JUST BEEN TO—THE SPEAKER DWELT UPON MAN—AS HIS SUBJECT—HE SAID—AT A MUSEUM IN WASHINGTON—THEY'VE GOT IN BOTTLES—THE FINAL ANALYSIS OF MAN—

THAT'S INTERESTING PROCEED—

HE SAID THAT OUR BODIES ARE MADE UP OF SO MUCH PER CENT SALTS AND COMMON WATER—

—AND HE WOUND UP BY SAYING— THAT THE MARKET VALUE OF THESE PROPERTIES IN A FULL GROWN BODY IS ABOUT 37 CENTS—

DON'T LET THAT DISCOURAGE YOU HITT—

YOU AIN'T FULL GROWN YET— AND BESIDES THOSE PRICES MAY HAVE BEEN QUOTED BEFORE THE WAR—

LET'S HOPE THEY WERE—
